Our Story

Aigner Chocolates is one of the oldest chocolate shops in New York City, making and purveying handcrafted confections in Forest Hills, Queens since 1930.

Aigner's History

What started as Krause's Candy Kitchen in 1930 has become a neighborhood institution and cornerstone of the Forest Hills community. The Aigner family took over from the Krause's in the early 1960s, making chocolate and candy confections for three generations. In 2015, husband and wife duo Mark Libertini and Rachel Kellner became the new owners, continuing traditions and beginning many of their own.

The Chocolate

All of Aigner's chocolate is produced on-site using antique equipment and recipes that have been passed down through the generations, including the traditional Austrian/German confections for which Aigner Chocolates is known.

The Owners & Their Vision

Rachel is a licensed clinical social worker, whose visionary approach involves utilizing food as therapy and Mark has 25 years of experience as a classically trained pastry chef in the food industry. While Mark has always dreamed of running a chocolate shop, Rachel's unique perspective on "food as a therapy" sets Aigner Chocolates apart. Their management team is led and staffed by women. Aigner Chocolates holds WBENC certification and has obtained WBE certification through both NYC and NYS, highlighting a commitment to excellence and diversity. As it turns out, chocolate can be a powerful source of healing, not only in the Forest Hills community but also everywhere Aigner Chocolates reaches.

Community

Aigner Chocolates is committed to the Queens community and is always finding ways to support local organizations, schools, nonprofits and hospitals. Aigner Chocolates was instrumental in establishing Metro Village of Forest Hills, a Metropolitan Avenue business alliance that helps preserve and strengthen the community.
