Call for Sponsors

Asiacrypt is one of the three premier cryptography conferences organized annually by the International Association for Cryptologic Research (IACR). It is attended by top cryptographers in academia and industry from all over the world. As usual, we expect an exciting lineup of works that would be of great interest to a broad range of participants.

Your help is sought. The IACR is a non-profit organization and the expenses for all IACR conferences are paid for by registration fees and sponsorships from institutions such as your company. In the past editions of the conference, sponsors have used the opportunity to advertise, to get in touch with likeminded people, or to simply support the progress in the field. The sponsorship will be used to facilitate student participation, as well as support diversity, equity, and inclusion for the conference participants. Any amount of sponsorship would be greatly appreciated and your company's logo will be included on all event signage and conference websites. To acknowledge more generous support, we will assign the following sponsorship level designations based on the amount of contribution:
