

Human Subjects Research: Navigating the IRB Process

DATE AND TIME: Thursday 9/27/2018 3 - 5 PM

LOCATION: 150 University Hall

PRESENTERS: Rebecca Armstrong

Director, UCB Office for Protection of Human Subjects (OPHS)

Adrienne Tanner

Assistant Director, UCB Office for Protection of Human Subjects (OPHS)

This session will provide a basic overview of human subjects research review, including:

- how to determine whether or not you are conducting human subjects research,
- levels of IRB review,
- how to apply for OPHS/CPHS review,
- what to expect in terms of the IRB review process, and more!

In addition, there will be special emphasis on the revised human subjects research regulations. It's been 7 years in coming but the revised "Common Rule" (45CFR46) that governs the conduct of human subjects research will go into effect on January 21, 2019!

We invite you to come listen and ask questions about:

- what remains the same (e.g. the definition of risk);
- what's changing (e.g. research that qualifies for exempt level review);
- what goes away - YEAH! (E.g. continuing review of minimal risk research); and
- how CPHS/OPHS will be managing this transition to keep research moving seamlessly along.

We hope to see you there!
