(b) 3% simple interest per annum on loans to Developments other than those identified in paragraph (a) above;

STATUTES IMPLEMENTED BY THE RULE

5. The Rule is implementing, among other sections of the Florida Housing Finance Corporation Act¹, the Statute that created the SAIL program. See §420.5087, Florida Statutes.

6. The Corporation has the authority pursuant to Section 120.542(1), Florida Statutes, and Rule Chapter 28-104, F.A.C., to grant variances to its rule requirements when strict application of such rules would lead to unreasonable, unfair and unintended consequences in particular instances. Variances shall be granted when the person subject to the rule demonstrates that the application of the rule would: (1) create a substantial hardship or violate principals of fairness,² and (2) the purpose of the underlying statute has been or will be achieved by other means by the person. Section 120.542(2), Florida Statutes. Denial of Petitioner's request for a rule variance in this case will present substantial hardship to the Petitioner and will frustrate the underlying purpose of the statute.

FACTS DEMONSTRATING ENTITLEMENT TO VARIANCE

7. Petitioners acquired the approximately seven acre site for the Development by special warranty deed dated July 29, 2003. Petitioners performed their due diligence with regard to the Phase I Environmental Site Assessment and Soils test. The plan for development was 212 units, with construction anticipated to be completed in July 2004.

8. In January 2004, during construction, Petitioner discovered oil on the property and the site was shut down for 18 months, while remediation plans were drafted, reviewed and approved. The presence of oil had not been disclosed by the seller of the property who was aware prior to the sale of Department of Environmental Resource Management (“DERM”) violations on the site. The engineer who performed the soil evaluation was also aware of the presence of oil on the site prior to the construction beginning, however, failed to disclose this to Petitioner’s representative. The Petitioner, upon discovery of this environmental hazard, immediately contacted the Hallendale Beach City Commission and sought their assistance in having the property designated as a Brownfield Area pursuant to Section 376.80 (2)(b), Florida statutes. On June 15, 2004, the Hallendale Beach City Commission adopted Resolution 2004-18 which designated the Development site as a Brownsfield Area.

9. Subsequently, Petitioner hired an engineering firm to draft recommendations for remediation and submit them to the Department of Environmental Resources Management for review and approval. In December 2004 these plans were approved and a Brownfield Site Rehabilitation Agreement (“BSRA”) was entered into between Broward County and Harbour Cove Associates, Ltd. The BSRA required the Petitioner to conduct site rehabilitation and throughout the process to submit technical reports to Broward County for oversight purposes. The site work remediation has recently been concluded as has the testing of the twenty-one (21) existing monitoring wells on the site. The testing results were submitted to the Broward County Environmental Protection Department.

10. The Petitioner closed on the SAIL Loan in May 2005. Due to the extended delay caused by the discovery of oil and the ensuing Brownfield remediation process, Petitioner, who is also the General Contractor on the Development, has had to rebid all of the subcontractor work at great expense. There have been significant increases in basic material costs during this interim period. These factors, as well as the significant additional costs attached to the remediation process, have resulted in cost overruns in excess of approximately $8,000,000 to date, including

1.9 million dollars in additional construction period interest and more than 2.5 million dollars for site remediation. It is anticipated that this number will continue to rise, at least in the immediate future. Due to these unforeseen delays, completion of the construction of the Development will now take three (3) years and three (3) months resulting in Petitioner losing approximately $1,400,000 in tax credit equity.

11. Petitioner is requesting a variance from the 2003 SAIL Rule to allow the interest rate on this SAIL Loan to be reduced from 3% to 1%. The granting of this variance will result in savings of interest which this Petitioner needs to offset the enormous cost overruns.³ However even with the variance, Petitioner anticipates that it will have no General Contractor fee and no Developer fee.

12. In this case, continued strict application of Rule 67-048.010(3) (a) under these exceptional circumstances will create a substantial hardship for Petitioner. The granting of this request will serve the underlying purpose of the statute in that additional funding will enhance the likelihood of financial success and, in turn, will further Florida Housings statutory mandate to provide safe, sanitary and affordable housing to the citizens of Florida. Due to the unexpected series of events and delays resulting from the Brownsfield designation and execution of the BSRA, Petitioner must now meet significant cost overruns. To deny Petitioner's request will create an economic hardship in that Petitioner will not have the use of the additional interest money to offset the cost overruns described above.

VARIANCE WILL SERVE THE UNDERLYING PURPOSE OF THE STATUTE

13. Petitioner believes that a variance of this Rule will serve the purposes of the statute which is implemented by the rule. The Florida Housing Finance Corporation Act

(Section 420.501, et seq.) was passed in order to encourage private and public investment in persons of low income. The creation of the SAIL program was to provide first, second or other subordinated mortgage loans or loan guarantees to sponsors, including for-profit, non-profit and public entities, to provide affordable housing to very low income persons. The legislative intent will be served by the granting of this variance please contact the undersigned.
