

THE MEDINA SUN

THE SUN COMES OUT ON THURSDAY • NOVEMBER 23, 2006

Sun News. Really, really local.

Last year's Thanksgiving snowfall didn't stop teams from playing in the annual Turkey Bowl.

Turkey Bowl game is tradition

Guys play for worthy causes and bragging rights

It's a tradition played out in fields and yards across the country today. It's the Turkey Bowl — groups of people who play their own brand of football before settling down for Thanksgiving festivities.

In Medina, one game has a bit of a twist, however.

The Meadows Turkey Bowl started with four people many years ago and has grown every year. "It used to be old vs. young," explained Mike Meadows, who hosts the game in his backyard, "those who graduated between 1979 and 1984, and those who graduated from 1988-93. It got bigger, and it became old Medina vs.
