

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA
ARIZONA INSTITUTE FOR RESILIENCE

Indigenous Resilience Center

ADVANCING ENVIRONMENTAL RESILIENCE OF NATIVE NATIONS

The Indigenous Resilience Center (IRes) aims to position the University of Arizona as a world leader in Indigenous resilience research, education, and outreach. IRes centers Indigenous Knowledges in its programming under four pillars of community engagement, all of which are guided by IRes' core values.

Our Core Faculty

Dr. Karletta Chief

Culturally relevant Water Science for Indigenous Communities

Dr. Michael Kotutwa Johnson

Promoting Indigenous Ingenuity in the field of Agriculture

Dr. Joseph H. Hoover

Geospatial Data Analysis & Indigenous Environmental Health Science

Dr. Cherie De Vore

Biogeochemistry, Biotechnology, and Environmental Remediation

Visit us at resilience.arizona.edu for more information

Social Media
& Resources

