

HOK+ARUP 12-WEEK MENTORSHIP

HOK+Arup is looking for students or recent graduates of architecture, engineering, and construction management programs who are interested in complex infrastructure projects or public agency work to participate in a paid mentorship opportunity.

Individuals will engage in a 12-week program focused on project management training skills including contracts, fee preparations, invoice review, executive level presentations to clients, subconsultant management, and project performance metrics. This opportunity will allow candidates to engage with HOK and Arup leadership as well as participate in meetings and presentations with Los Angeles World Airports. At the conclusion of the program, HOK+Arup will assist candidates with resume and cover letter updates to position them for the next step in their careers.

The 12-week paid mentorship will be located at the HOK (architect) and ARUP (engineer) offices in downtown Los Angeles. The paid mentorship start date in Spring or Summer 2023 is flexible. Full- or part-time involvement is acceptable.
