Subject: 'metadata'

Metadata is "data that provides information about other data".

Example – the information in a PDF document is the 'data'. Metadata includes document properties such as when a document was created, modified, what template its based off of, the author, and the file size. Metadata can be automatically created or custom metadata can be 'tagged'.

Hope this helps 😊.

Hi Brittany:

I received a voicemail from the General today. He is requesting that all documents I have on the Nathan Paul matter be copied and given to Elise.

There are several manila folders on my round table which contain identical sets of those documents. (They are on the edge of the table that is closest to my desk). You can give one of those to Elise.

Thanks for your help. Please reply by email if you have any questions. My cell connection here in the mountains has been spotty.
