IMPORTANT TERMS YOU SHOULD KNOW

IRA Custodian. A financial institution that holds your IRA funds for safekeeping and adheres to applicable IRS and government regulations.

IRA Rollover. When an IRA owner receives a distribution from an existing IRA, Workplace retirement plan (WRP), or Qualified Retirement plan (QRP) from one financial institution and moves them into an IRA with another financial institution. If the Rollover is completed via check, it may be payable to the IRA owner. Generally, if those funds are not deposited into another IRA or QRP within 60 days, the IRA owner may face tax implications.

IRA Transfer. When funds are moved from another financial institution into the same type of IRA plan. If the transfer is completed via check, it should be payable to the receiving financial institution for the benefit of the IRA owner. There are generally no tax implications for an IRA transfer as the funds are not distributed to the IRA owner.

Qualified Retirement Funds. Funds in a retirement plan that meet specifications as defined by the IRS.

Qualified Retirement Plan (QRP). Retirement agreements that meet the specifications as defined by the IRS. Some examples of a QRP are 401(k), 403(b), and employer pension plans.

Roth IRA. A Roth IRA is a way to save for retirement, with non-tax-deductible contributions. Earnings are tax-deferred while accumulating in the plan and, if certain requirements are satisfied, distributions (including earnings) are tax-free.

Savings Incentive Match Plan for Employees (SIMPLE IRA). A SIMPLE IRA allows employees and employers to contribute to traditional IRAs set up for employees. It is ideally suited as a start-up retirement savings plan for small employers without a retirement plan.

Simplified Employee Pension Plan (SEP). A SEP plan allows employers to contribute to traditional IRAs (SEP-IRAs) set up for employees. A business of any size can establish a SEP.

Traditional IRA. A traditional IRA is a way to save for retirement with tax advantages. Traditional IRA contributions (deposits) may be tax-deductible, and the earnings are tax-deferred while accumulating in the plan; however, they may become taxable when distributed (withdrawn).
