FORT SNELLING (Continued)

THIS IS MINNESOTA'S FORT SNELLING

One of the Oldest Active Military Reservations in United States

Today, with the U. S. defense training program in high gear, the Northwest has again focused its attention on historic Fort Snelling, just as it often has done during the military reservation's 122-year history. Because the Fort Snelling reservation, adjacent to Minneapolis and St. Paul, sprawls over 1,521 acres, few of its thousands of visitors get a comprehensive idea of its size and layout. Better than any airplane view in imparting such an idea is Star Journal Artist Bud Matthes' "bird's-eye view" reproduced here. This view looks West. Only the most important Fort Snelling buildings are indicated.
