

Conference for Food Protection

Crumbine Award Policy

PURPOSE

The Crumbine Award is a prestigious national award given annually to local environmental health jurisdictions who demonstrate excellence and continual improvement in a comprehensive food protection program. The purpose of the award is to encourage improvement and stimulate public interest in foodservice sanitation.

POLICY

- The administration of the Crumbine Award will be the responsibility of the Conference for Food Protection (CFP) and the National Association of County and City Health Officials. CFP will have the primary responsibility for the Award's continuation by coordinating with the co-sponsors, collecting their contributions, managing these funds, and disbursing them as necessary. Also, CFP will be responsible for soliciting additional co-sponsors whenever needed.
- The National Association of County and City Health Officials will administer the Award by making arrangements for the Jury meetings, and announcing the Award availability and winners to the news media.
- The Award Description, Entry Outline and Administrative Guidelines are available at <http://www.crumbineaward.com/>.