Notice to Recipient

If you expect to owe income tax (after withholding) of $500 or more for 1991, and if you had any income tax liability for 1990, you should file Form 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals, and pay the tax in installments during the year. You can, instead, increase the withholding from your pension or annuity. To arrange this, please file Form W-4P, Withholding Certificate for Pension or Annuity Payments, with the payer.

You may also elect not to have income tax withheld from your pension or annuity. (You may revoke this election at any time.) See Form W-4P for details.

Box 14 should have a code number that shows the type of distribution being made. The code is a four-digit number starting with 555. The fourth digit identifies the type of distribution: 1—Early (premature) distribution, no known exception (See Form 5329.); 2—Early (premature) distribution, exception applies; 3—Disability; 4—Death; 7—Normal distribution; 8—Excess contributions plus earnings/excess deferrals (and/or earnings) taxable in 1990; P—Excess contributions plus earnings/excess deferrals taxable in 1989; 9—PS 58 costs; B—Qualifies for death benefit exclusion; D—Excess contributions plus earnings/excess deferrals taxable in 1988.

Generally, amounts received from an IRA or SEP are includible in income. But if you made any nondeductible contributions, see Pub. 590 for more information.

If there is no entry in box 10, "Taxable amount", the payer probably does not have all the facts needed for figuring the taxable amount. Since only the taxable amount is includible in income, you may want to get one of the following publications from an IRS office to help you figure the taxable amount:

Pub. 571, Tax-Sheltered Annuity Programs for Employees of Public Schools and Certain Tax-Exempt Organizations;

Pub. 575, Pension and Annuity Income (Including Simplified General Rule);

Pub. 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs);

Pub. 721, Tax Guide to U.S. Civil Service Retirement Benefits;

Pub. 939, Pension General Rule (Nonsimplified Method).
