

Beth Walker

Beth Walker is a dedicated professional born and raised in Lafayette, Indiana, where she continues to live and work. She serves as a Lecturer and Internship Coordinator for the Department of Public Health at Purdue University, West Lafayette, a role she has excelled in since 2001.

Beth's academic journey is deeply intertwined with Purdue University, from which she holds a bachelor's degree in nursing and a master's degree in public health. Her extensive experience and passion for public health education have made her a valuable mentor and resource for students pursuing careers in this vital field.

In 2023, Beth expanded her commitment to community service by becoming a board member for the American Red Cross and is the faculty advisor for the American Red Cross Club at Purdue.

Beth is married and the proud parent of five grown children. Her home is a lively one, shared with a beloved and notably plump yellow Labrador, as well as two cats who became part of the family during the pandemic. Beth's personal and professional life reflects her commitment to community, education, and the well-being of those around her.
