Comments:

Graded Agency:

The Department of the Interior supports more than $370 billion in economic activity each year. This is fueled, in part, by annual spending in contracts of approximately $2 billion. The Department's efforts in small business contracting are reflective of one of the most robust small business programs in the entire Federal government. Expanding opportunities for small businesses to contract with the Federal government is a priority of the President and of Secretary Jewell. Small businesses play a vital role in creating jobs and spurring economic growth. More new jobs are created by small businesses than any other sector of the economy, and our small business partners help us to deliver services to communities across the Nation.
