L'urgence climatique et sociale nécessite une refonte du système économique international

— 26 septembre 2019 à 07:09

UNITED NATIONS, Sept. 26 (Xinhua) -- UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres on Thursday called on the international community to provide "adequate, predictable, sustainable funding" to the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

In his remarks at the High-level Dialogue on Sentiment: Much of the coverage, including that by Xinhua news agency, focused on the gap in financing sustainable development and climate action with $1.5 trillion the most quoted figure. Brazil's Estadão led with Bill Gates' call for "just taxes" voiced at the dialogue. UAE's The National noted that the challenge for the organisers [would] be to cut through the noise and ensure [the 26 September] meeting gets the attention it deserves.

Opinion: In their op-ed for the prominent daily Libération, ten NGOs, including Oxfam France and CCFD-Terre Solidaire called for an independent international mechanism of debt restructuring. In his column for The Jakarta Post, Director general for multilateral cooperation at the Indonesian Foreign Ministry Febrian Ruddyard wrote that blended finance could help reach development goals in Indonesia. Senior policy director at the ONE Campaign in London Sara Harcourt argued in Devex that governments are not pulling their weight in financing the goals. The most prominent coverage of the Dialogue came in the form of op-eds in prestigious publications.

The Secretary-General's tweet from the High-level Dialogue garnered 275 retweets and 830 likes.

Without resources, we simply cannot deliver the #GlobalGoals and address the climate emergency.

We need adequate, predictable and sustainable funding.

Let's be more ambitious and provide finance that enables markets to grow, businesses to thrive and people to live in dignity.
