SIZING UP THE COMPETITION

When it comes to the meetings market, Scottsdale competes with some of the nation's heaviest hitters. Here's how we stack up against the competition:

Destination	Percentage of Resorts/Hotels Rated as AAA 4- or 5-Diamond	Golf Courses	Resort Spas	Air Accessibility
				Nonstops To/From Major Canadian Cities	Total Daily Arrivals & Departures (Average)
Scottsdale	22%	200	25	20	1,200
Miami	15%	30	18	26	1,121
Orlando	4%	170	7	12	802
Palm Springs	3%	13	12	5	139
San Diego	6%	93	11	4	515
Tucson	7%	27	10	0	55

When you add it all up, Scottsdale's combination of award-winning accommodations, outstanding amenities and convenient air access puts us at the top of the chart.

WEATHER & GEOGRAPHY

Scottsdale's Sonoran Desert location means we enjoy more than 330 sunny days each year and an average year-round median temperature of 22.5° Celsius (72.6° F). The McDowell Mountains rising along Scottsdale's eastern border, Camelback Mountain to the west and Pinnacle Peak to the north are the city's most recognizable natural landmarks. And, since Scottsdale is only 31 miles from north to south and 11.5 miles from east to west, you're never too far from your next Scottsdale destination!
