Policy Statement

The University of California, Berkeley will charge an administrative full costing fee on external funds received from the sales and services of educational activities, auxiliary enterprises, agency activities, service enterprises, and other operating revenue.

Scope of Policy

This policy affects all campus units that receive external revenue or may receive external revenue.

Why We Have This Policy

Administrative full costing is necessary to reimburse central campus departments for administrative costs (e.g. disbursements, police, cashiering, systems support, accounting services, etc.) incurred in support of external revenue-generating activities. The previous administrative full costing process was incomplete, inconsistent, and overly complex. It captured some, but not all, administrative costs of auxiliary units, self-supporting units, and agency activities. It failed to capture costs from a large number of other units, particularly units with multiple income streams, i.e. some from central funds and some from non-central sources. While research and gift activities are subject to an overhead charge to defray administrative and other costs, many of these other units receive external funds that don't fall into any of these categories.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, BERKELEY
Policy on Administrative Full Costing

These units do not reimburse the campus for the added administrative load which results from this revenue.

This policy is aimed at implementing a simple process that will apply administrative full costing uniformly and fairly across the campus.

Procedures

Standard Procedure

Administrative full costing applies to all external funds received from the sales and services of educational activities, auxiliary enterprises, agency activities, service enterprises, and other operating revenues, including but not limited to revenue received from sales, services, media and marketing opportunities, fees to individuals, royalties, license fees, recharge revenue from outside sources, and rent. On a monthly basis, Financial Accounting & Controls processes an administrative assessment to the applicable contra revenue account equivalent to a percentage of revenue from external sources (see the Appendix for revenue sources subject to assessment) and credits an unrestricted Chancellor's fund. The amount received by the Chancellor is used to offset the central administration costs incurred in support of external revenue-generating activities.

Administrative full costing does not apply to tuition and student fees, appropriations, investment income, gifts, grants, and contracts. These sources of revenue are subject to an overhead charge or alternate appropriation process to defray administrative and other costs. A list of revenue sources subject to the assessment is included in the Appendix.

For cases where University regulations, state, federal, or other external legal restrictions prohibit the University from assessing the revenue source (e.g. under certain circumstances, bond indentures prohibit the assessment of an administrative fee on the revenue source), Financial Accounting & Controls will determine on a monthly basis a credit equal to the assessment made on the restricted revenue source during the month and credit that amount back to the unit involved.

Outside customers of campus recharge centers pay a surcharge, normally fifty percent, intended to cover the cost of campus overhead. Since all outside sales and service revenue is subject to the administrative full costing assessment, both the cost of services provided and the surcharge amount will be subject to the revenue assessment for outside customers.

Periodically, central campus administrative costs will be analyzed and the administrative full costing rate will be adjusted accordingly, subject to the Chancellor's approval.

Implementation Schedule

Effective fiscal year 2008-09, units receiving eligible external revenue were assessed at 4% of their eligible external revenue.

Financial Accounting and Controls:

On a monthly basis, processes an administrative assessment on all external revenue sources subject to administrative full costing and credits an unrestricted Chancellor's fund.
