OUR HISTORY

Turns out we're on an avenue, not a street like we named it. (Oops.) But it's been 31 years and people keep finding us! Have a look at the mural by McMenamins artist Joe Cotter (1949-2012) of the Oregon Country Fair, held every July since 1969 in nearby Veneta, OR. "I was trying to get the feeling of what the Fair's like," Joe explained in 2010. "There's a lot of creative energy - performance art, music, spoken word, activists. A lot of people see it as a renewal." You might recognize the Flying Karamazov Brothers, Artis the Spoonman, Baby Gramps, the Mud People, Ken Kesey, Tom Noddy the bubble guy, the Holy Modal Rounders and many others - including Joe Cotter himself. "I'm there playing the trumpet. I actually put myself in. I never do that." This mural (along with hundreds of others throughout McMenamins' properties) is a colorful reminder of Joe's incredible talent and presence.
