Head Coach & General Manager Terrence Wallin

Terrence Wallin was named the third head coach in Mariners history in July of 2022, following Ben Guite's departure to Bowdoin College. Wallin became the Mariners assistant coach in 2021 after retiring from a five-year professional playing career, the final two as a Mariner. A native of Yardley, PA, Wallin has multiple New England connections, including a family home in Kennebunk. He also played his college hockey at the University of Massachusetts-Lowell from 2011-15. After beginning his pro career with the Southern Professional Hockey League's Peoria Rivermen in 2015-16, he rose to the ECHL and the Adirondack Thunder. Wallin played for parts of three seasons with Adirondack, plus a stint with the Rapid City Rush, before being traded from the Thunder to Maine prior to the start of the 2018-19 season. Wallin reached the AHL in 2017-18 and 2018-19, playing stints with the Binghamton Devils and Hartford Wolf Pack. He served as an alternate captain each of his two seasons as a player for the Mariners. Wallin founded Evolution Hockey Camps in 2019, teaching hockey skills to players of all ages. After leading the Mariners to their best season in franchise history, Wallin was awarded a two-year extension and promoted to General Manager in April of 2023. Terrence currently lives in Portland with wife, Erin and son, Wes.

AFFILIATE INFORMATION

NHL Affiliate: Boston Bruins

The pride of professional hockey all throughout New England, the Boston Bruins are one of the National Hockey League's most prestigious franchises. An "original six" team, the Bruins are the third oldest active NHL organization and the oldest in the United States. The B's are six time Stanley Cup champions, most recently in 2011. The partnership with the Mariners was renewed in 2021, but the AHL edition were also Boston affiliates from 1987-1992, before moving to Providence (more on that below). The Bruins and Mariners announced a two-year affiliation extension in April of 2023. Today's Bruins remain a perennial Stanley Cup contender, appearing in the playoffs for each of the last seven seasons and 12 of the last 14 overall. They achieved the best regular season in NHL history in 2022-23, going 65-12-5, with 135 points, breaking the league's wins and points records.

AHL Affiliate: Providence Bruins

You could say that hockey in Portland has come full circle, with the new Providence affiliation, as the P-Bruins are the former AHL Maine Mariners. Boston moved its AHL affiliate from Portland to Providence following the 1991-92 season, ending the 14 year run of the original Mariners. Providence, like Portland, has a rich history of minor league hockey, having hosted the Providence Reds (now the Hartford Wolf Pack) for five decades from 1926-1977. The Bruins lone Calder Cup championship came in 1998-99 after winning 56 games in the regular season. They were led that season by future Stanley Cup winning coach Peter Laviolette. The P-Bruins have made it to the last 9 Calder Cup playoffs, and won the Atlantic Division regular season title in three of the past four seasons

PORTLAND HOCKEY HISTORY

The Original Maine Mariners (1977-1987)

Professional hockey in Portland has a rich history, dating back to the 1970s, when the original Maine Mariners were brought to town by the same franchise that owns the modern Mariners, the Philadelphia Flyers. The “first” Mariners began play in the 1977-78 season as the AHL affiliate of the Flyers and played their first game in Portland on October 15th, 1977. The Mariners took the league by storm, winning the Calder Cup after a 43-28-9 regular season and defeating the New Haven Night-hawks for the title. They followed up the impressive feat by repeating as Calder Cup Champions the following season, going 45-22-13 and taking down New Haven once again in the finals. The Mariners are still the only franchise in AHL history to win the Calder Cup in each of its first two seasons.

Prior to the 1983-84 season, the Flyers sold the affiliation to the New Jersey Devils, and the Mariners pulled off more “first year” magic, winning their third Cup, despite the franchise’s first regular season losing record (33-36-11). They defeated the Rochester Americans in the Calder Cup Finals to capture their third championship. It also marked their fifth finals appearance in seven seasons of existence.

Maine Mariners, Second Franchise (1987-1992)

Following the 1986-87 season, the Devils relocated their AHL franchise to Utica, NY, opening the door for the Boston Bruins to take geographical advantage of the Portland market and place their top affiliate in town - an AHL expansion franchise. The Bruins preserved the team name and its logo, making only a color scheme change from Flyers black-and-orange to Bruins back-and-gold. Remarkably, it appeared that the Mariners might pull off yet another first year run to the Cup, finishing with the best record in the North Division (44-25-7-4), but they were ousted by the Fredrickton Express in the Division Finals. The 1987-88 season would be the only successful one for the Bruins iteration of the Mariners, who failed to finish above .500 or make the playoffs in any of their four preceding seasons. After the 1991-92 campaign, the Bruins moved the franchise to Providence, Rhode Island, where it still operates today. The last Maine Mariners AHL game took place on April 4th, 1992.

Portland Pirates (1993-2016)

After just one season without hockey at the Cross Insurance Arena, the Washington Capitals moved their AHL affiliate from Baltimore, Maryland to Portland, and the Pirates were born. Enjoying tremendous success on and off the ice right away, the Pirates did what only the Mariners could do before them, and won the Calder Cup in 1993-94: their first season. Barry Trotz, head coach of the 2018

Stanley Cup Champion Washington Capitals served as the bench boss, leading the Pirates to a 43-27-10 regular season mark and a six-game victory over the Moncton Hawks in the championship series. Trotz would serve as head coach until 1997. The Pirates returned to the Calder Cup Finals in 1995-96, but lost to the Rochester Americans in seven games. Although the Pirates would remain in Portland for ten more seasons, they would never make a return to the finals.

In the summer of 2005, the Pirates switched parent clubs from the Capitals to the Anaheim Ducks, an affiliation that would last for three seasons. In 2008, a new relationship began with the Buffalo Sabres that would last through the end of the 2010-11 season, after which the Sabres reunited with Rochester. The move ushered in the Phoenix Coyotes era, which spanned four seasons. During what would be their final season in Portland (2015-16), the Pirates were affiliated with the Florida Panthers. On May 4th, 2016, it was announced that the Pirates had been sold with intent to relocate the franchise. Less than two weeks later, the move to Springfield, Massachusetts became official.

Maine Mariners, ECHL (2018-pres)

Pro hockey returned to the Cross Insurance Arena in 2018-19, two seasons after the departure of the Pirates. This third version of the Mariners is owned by Comcast Spectacor and operated on the business side by the Philadelphia Flyers, while serving as an affiliate club of the Boston Bruins and AHL’s Providence Bruins. For the first three seasons (the third of which the Mariners did not play due to the pandemic), they were affiliated with the New York Rangers and Hartford Wolf Pack. The Bruins affiliation was announced on June 30th, 2021.

ABOUT THE ECHL

Year founded: 1988

Headquarters: Princeton, New Jersey

Commissioner: Ryan Crelin

Number of teams: 28

Length of season: 72 games

Most recent champion: Florida Everblades (2X)

Founded in 1988, the ECHL is the “Premier AA Hockey League,” boasting 28 teams across the U.S. and into Eastern Canada. Formerly short for “East Coast Hockey League,” the expansion into areas like Boise, Idaho, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Rapid City, South Dakota, prompted the ECHL decide to identify by its acronym only. The ECHL and AHL are the only minor leagues affiliated with the NHL. The league is split into four divisions (North, South, Central, Mountain) within two conferences (Eastern and Western) and its Championship trophy is the Kelly Cup. The ECHL follows most of the rules and regulations of its two higher leagues, but plays with one fewer skater (17 as opposed to 18), a number that was increased from 16 before the 2022-23 season. Roster size is 20, compared to 23 in the NHL. Players on ECHL rosters can have a contract with an NHL, AHL, or ECHL team. In 2019-20, the ECHL switched from five to seven minute overtime periods and instituted video review for goals in all arenas. The 2021-22 season saw the addition of the Trois-Rivieres Lions (Trois-Rivieres, Quebec) and the Iowa Heartlanders (Coralville, Iowa), while the Brampton Beast ceased operations. Another new franchise joined the league in 2022-23: the Savannah Ghost Pirates (Savannah, GA), bringing the total number of teams in the ECHL to 28. In 2023, the ECHL increased its maximum membership number to 32 (which would match the NHL), and announced an expansion franchise in Lake Tahoe, NV for the start of the 2024-25 season. As of the start of 2023-24, all 28 ECHL teams have an NHL affiliate.
