

Office of the Texas Governor Sexual Assault Survivors' Task Force

Greetings all and welcome to the March issue of the Governor's Sexual Assault Survivors' Task Force (SASTF) newsletter!

We are thrilled to embark on our 5th year as the SASTF and remain grateful to all of our Task Force and working group members for your continued efforts to transform Texas' response to sexual violence.

In this issue of our newsletter, we are highlighting resources for survivors of sexual assault and professionals responding to sexual assault. As part of our legislative mandate, the SASTF was directed to make information about services and resources for sexual assault survivors available to the public and to provide law enforcement agencies and prosecutors with information and resources to maximize effective and empathetic investigations and prosecutions. The SASTF successfully launched the Resources for Sexual Assault Survivors online directory in 2022 and compiled some additional resources for survivors and professionals included in this issue.

In addition to the resources featured below, we spotlight a community event organized by Survivor Leader, Marcus Reese, which is the 2nd Annual Break the Silence Fun Run. This event will raise awareness of child sexual abuse and teen dating violence, as well as provide education and resource networking. We also highlight sexual assault cold cases in Texas that have recently been solved with advanced DNA technology and include information about two Sexual Assault Kit Initiative (SAKI) Grantees that utilize Forensic Genetic Genealogy in their work.

Finally, this issue includes a list of upcoming training opportunities including the SASTF's first webinar, SARTs in Texas: What We Have Learned and What's Next. We hope you can join the webinar!

Sincerely,

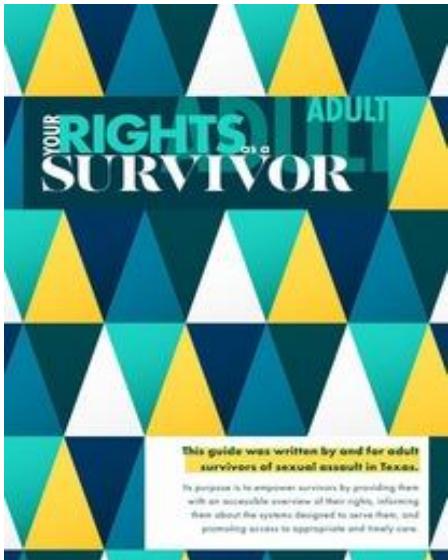

SASTF

Information for Survivors of Sexual Assault

To ensure the safety of vulnerable populations, the law requires a person to report suspected sexual assault or abuse to law enforcement and the Texas Department of Family and Protective Services for the following individuals:

- A child,
- An adolescent less than 18 years old,
- An elderly person, or
- An individual with a disability.

If you are 18 or older, you may choose to report the sexual assault to law enforcement. You may ask for a medical forensic exam for a sexual assault even if you choose not to report the assault to law enforcement.

You may choose to have a support person(s) in the exam room with you, which can be:

- A friend,
- A family member, or
- A trained sexual assault advocate.

If an advocate is available, they will come and have a confidential conversation with you. An advocate can answer any questions about the process and inform you of your options every step of the way. You may also choose not to have anyone in the exam room except for you and the medical staff.

Community Spotlight - Break the Silence

By Marcus Reese, Taylor Area Tennis Association

About 35 miles northeast of Austin is the City of Taylor, Texas. Recent buzz revolves around the Samsung semiconductor plant being built here but there is another buzz-worthy event worth mentioning: The 2nd Annual Break the Silence Fun Run.

This year we collaborated with Impact Counseling Services, Taylor Independent School District, and the Williamson County Children's Advocacy Center. As we finish preparations, we are constantly reminded of the lasting impact the first event had. When we plan this event, every part of it is centered from a survivor's standpoint. We are aware that some in attendance are child and adult victims that have not yet outcried. We want the event to be warm and inviting for all. What makes this event truly unique is the fact that it's more than just a fun run to raise awareness, we also provide education and resource networking. Just like last year, we will have community resources and agencies on site to highlight their services and share how their work directly impacts survivors. For our youngest participants, there will be a kid zone with fun activities and education provided by the Williamson County Children's Advocacy Center. This year, we added a breakout session focused on teen dating violence. One of the things I'm most excited about this event is a portion that is dedicated to showing a pathway to breaking the silence. We will bring in some of the people who helped me navigate my own story. We will put faces to these agencies, law enforcement, and advocates who help victims on their journey to justice and healing.

Silence can crush a soul. As a survivor who was silenced for more than twenty years, I wish I had an event like this back then. Not every silence is golden. Sometimes silence can be a prison.

Let's break the Silence.

Using Advanced DNA Technology to Solve Sexual Assault Cold Cases

With Texas' new statutory requirements for the handling of Combined DNA Index System (CODIS) database matches and the increased utilization of Forensic Genetic Genealogy (FGG), more serial sexual offenders are being identified and sexual assault cold cases are being solved. Survivors who have waited years, some even decades, are finally able to seek justice and have their offender identified and held accountable.

- CODIS is the computer software program that operates local, state, and national databases of DNA profiles from convicted offenders, unsolved crime scene evidence, and missing persons.
- FGG is an investigative technique that combines traditional genealogy research with DNA analysis utilized when a CODIS search does not yield probative matches.
- House Bill 4628 (88R) - Requires crime labs to inform law enforcement agencies of DNA matches in the CODIS database, and mandates law enforcement to respond and attempt to collect and return to the lab DNA samples from identified suspects within 30 days of a match in order to advance sexual assault criminal investigations.
- House Bill 3956 (88R) - Requires law enforcement agencies booking defendants who are arrested for felony offenses to collect DNA samples from those defendants to be entered into the CODIS database.

University of North Texas Health Science Center - Center for Human Identification's Forensic Genetic Genealogy Unit

The Center for Human Identification (CHI) on the campus of the University of North Texas Health Science Center at Fort Worth has implemented a Forensic Genetic Genealogy (FGG) unit as part of its normal casework operations. The laboratory has become the first publicly accredited crime laboratory in the U.S. to conduct FGG testing. CHI offers this technology to hundreds of law enforcement agencies across Texas at no cost, and to assist partners in the resolution of thousands of cases that have gone without answers for far too long.

Texas Department of Public Safety Sexual Assault Kit Initiative

The Texas Department of Public Safety's (DPS) Texas Rangers use SAKI funds to resume investigative efforts on cold cases by performing CODIS Familial Searches and outsourcing Forensic Genetic Genealogy testing of DNA samples from unknown offenders linked to sexual assaults and sexually related homicides. The Texas Rangers use the information obtained from the tests to investigate cold cases and to partner with external law enforcement agencies and prosecutors to bring these violent offenders to justice. Texas DPS' goal is to identify, arrest, and bring to justice, individuals whose DNA produces a match to cold case sexual assaults and homicides. Click here to learn more about DPS's SAKI Grant.
