INTRODUCTORY NOTE

As indicated previously in the Repertoire, Articles 31 and 32 of the Charter and rules 37 and 39 of the provisional rules of procedure provide for invitations to non-members of the Security Council in the following circumstances: (1) where a member of the United Nations brings a dispute or a situation to the attention of the Security Council in accordance with Article 35, paragraph 1 (rule 37); (2) where a Member of the United Nations or a State which is not a Member of the United Nations is a party to a dispute (Article 32); (3) where the interests of a Member of the United Nations are specially affected (Article 31 and rule 37); and (4) where members of the Secretariat or other persons are invited to supply information or give other assistance (rule 39). Of these four categories, only category (2) involves an obligation of the Council. In extending invitations, the Council, as earlier, has made no distinction between a complaint involving a dispute within the meaning of Article 32, or a situation, or a matter not of such nature.

The classification of material relevant to participation in the proceedings of the Security Council is designed to facilitate the presentation of the varieties of practice to which the Council has had recourse, adhering where possible to a classification based on Articles 31 and 32 of the Charter and rules 37 and 39 of the provisional rules of procedure. The reasons why the material cannot be satisfactorily arranged within a classification derived from the texts of these Articles and rules of procedure, have been set forth in the Repertoire, 1946-1951.

The relevant material is assembled under parts I and III of the present chapter. During the period under review there has been no discussion of the terms and provisions of Article 32. Consequently, there are no entries in part II.

Part I includes a summary account of the proceedings of the Council in the consideration of those proposals to extend an invitation to participate in the discussion where objections or other questions were raised with special emphasis on consideration of the basis on which the invitation might be deemed to rest. Included also in this part is a tabulation of invitations extended by the Council.

Part III presents a summary account of procedures relating to the participation of invited representatives after the Council had decided to extend invitations.

Part I

BASIS OF INVITATIONS TO PARTICIPATE

NOTE

Part I includes all instances in which proposals to extend invitations to participate in the discussion have been put forward in the Security Council. The types and varieties of practice to which the Council has had recourse in connexion with the extension of invitations are dealt with in three sections: section B: Invitations to representatives of subsidiary organs or other United Nations organs;¹ section C: Invitations to Members of the United Nations;² section D: Other invitations.³

During the period under review no special problems arose regarding requests for an invitation to participate in the proceedings of the Council. Invitations to Member States submitting matters to the Council in accordance with Article 35, paragraph 1, as well as invitations under Article 31 to Members of the United Nations to participate in the discussion of a question when their interests were considered specially affected have been extended as a matter of course and without discussion. Invitations falling under these two categories have been recorded in tabular form in section C.1 (a) and C.2 (a). These tabulations are chronologically arranged to provide information on the following points: (1) agenda item; (2) State invited; (3) request for invitation and (4) decision of the Council.

Section D contains a tabulation of invitations under rule 39 of the provisional rules of procedure, all of which were extended expressly under that rule and without any discussion.

³ See tabulation D.2.

Part III

PROCEDURES RELATING TO PARTICIPATION OF INVITED REPRESENTATIVES

NOTE

Part III is concerned with procedures relating to the participation of invited representatives after an invitation has been extended and comprises material on participation by Members and non-members of the United Nations.

No question concerning either the stage at which invited States might be heard (section A), or the duration of participation of invited representatives (section B) arose during the period under review. The practice has generally been maintained, according to which the President, when consideration of a question has extended over several meetings, has renewed the invitation at each consecutive meeting immediately after the adoption of the agenda.¹ However, in one instance, the practice of renewing inviraised in accordance with rule 37 of the provisional rules of procedure.⁴

No question concerning limitations connected with aspects of the business of the Council in which it has been deemed inappropriate that invited representatives should participate arose during the period under review (Section D).
