¹ NOTE: This form is only to start the process of registration in another state, which may assist the guardian/conservator in performing guardianship/conservatorship duties in that state. You will need to follow the procedures in the other state for completing the registration, which usually includes providing certified copies of certain documents from the Alaska case file. Check with the other state for any additional requirements for registering there. The court's website has more information on how to get copies of records: <http://courts.alaska.gov/trialcourts/index.htm#recs>.

Jurisdiction of the case will stay in Alaska, and only an Alaska court may change the guardianship/conservatorship order. If you would like to transfer the case (change jurisdiction) to another state, use form PG-753.
