RULES FOR ELIGIBILITY

1. All submitted films must be at least 70 minutes long.
2. Cost of completed film after tax incentives, and including post production expenses, should be less than $30 million. For verification purposes, all films with total budgets exceeding $25 million, or films with budgets under $1,000,000 and applying for the Cassavetes Award, are required to submit top sheets from their Final Cost Reports. Absolutely no exceptions to this requirement will be made.
3. Eligible films must have either:
 - a. Been programmed in 2023 at one of the following eight film festivals: Hot Docs, New Directors/New Films, New York Film Festival, Sundance Film Festival, SXSW Film Festival, Telluride Film Festival, Toronto International Film Festival, Tribeca Film Festival OR
 - b. Been shown in a commercial theater in the United States for at least one week (seven consecutive days) between January 1, 2023 – December 31, 2023 OR
 - c. Due to the changing landscape of independent releases, films made available through commercial streaming or VOD service between January 1, 2023 – December 31, 2023 may be eligible. Films must have participated in a fee-based service where a publicly accessible “ticket” or “subscription” was required; virtual film festival screenings at non-qualifying film festivals are ineligible.
4. Although films may be submitted in any year they are eligible, such as the year they screen in a qualifying festival or the year of their theatrical / streaming release, once a film is nominated (in any category), it is no longer eligible for submission in subsequent years. Films that qualify through a festival screening and will be released the first quarter of 2024 should submit this year. Films that qualify through a festival screening but will not be released until after the first quarter of 2024 should submit next year, for the 2025 Awards. For any questions or clarifications, please contact the Nominations office.
5. Except for the category of Best International Film and Best Documentary, all nominations go to American productions.
The Spirit Awards defines an “American production” as:
 - a. A film in which U.S. citizens or permanent residents are credited in at least two of the following categories of responsibilities: director, writer or producer. This can be fulfilled by one person with multiple duties or by separate individuals; OR
 - b. The film is set in significant part in the United States and/or has significant American content.

The Spirit Awards Nominating Committees and Film Independent reserve the right to determine if a film qualifies as International or American Narrative.

If requested by Film Independent, the submitter (filmmaker or distributor) must supply proof of citizenship or permanent residence of filmmaker(s). Films that have been asked to but do not submit proof of residence or financing will not be considered.
6. Documentary films are only eligible for Best Documentary; international narrative films are only eligible for Best International Film.
7. Eligibility for all awards shall be determined by credits as they appear on the screen. If a film is determined ineligible for any reason or submitted in the wrong category, the Spirit Awards Nominations Staff will contact the submitter (filmmaker or distributor).
