Blackjack

The object of the game of blackjack or "21" is to get a card total higher than that of the dealer's without going over 21. All cards are counted at their numerical value with face cards having a value of 10 and Aces as 1 or 11: it's your choice.

The game begins with the placing of a wager and the player receiving two (2) cards. The cards are all dealt face up except the dealers "hole card" which will be exposed after all player cards have been dealt. The cards will be touched only by the dealer. The player will indicate by hand signals how his hand is to be played. The dealer will be happy to explain how to do this.

Once you receive your cards you may:

SPLIT

If you are dealt two (2) cards of equal value you may split them into two (2) different hands betting the same amount and playing them separately. You may split a maximum of 3X (4 hands). If you receive two (2) Aces you may only split once receiving one (1) card per Ace.

DOUBLE DOWN

You may double down on any first two cards. This means that you may place an additional wager up to your original bet and receive one (1) more card.

If the first two (2) cards dealt to you are an Ace and a Ten value card you have a Blackjack. This pays 3 to 2. If the dealer also has a Blackjack it is a push or standoff.

If the dealer's up-card is an Ace you have the option of making an Insurance bet. This is a wager that the dealer has a 10 value card for a down card making a Blackjack. You can bet up to $\frac{1}{2}$ of your bet and it pays 2 to 1.

We also allow the player to take even money if the dealer has an Ace up and the player has a Blackjack. The dealer peeks at his hole card when his up card is a Ten value card or an Ace. Other than that, the dealer will hit 16's and all soft 17's. Wagers are then paid, taken, or pushed. Cards are collected and a new round of play begins.
