Program highlights

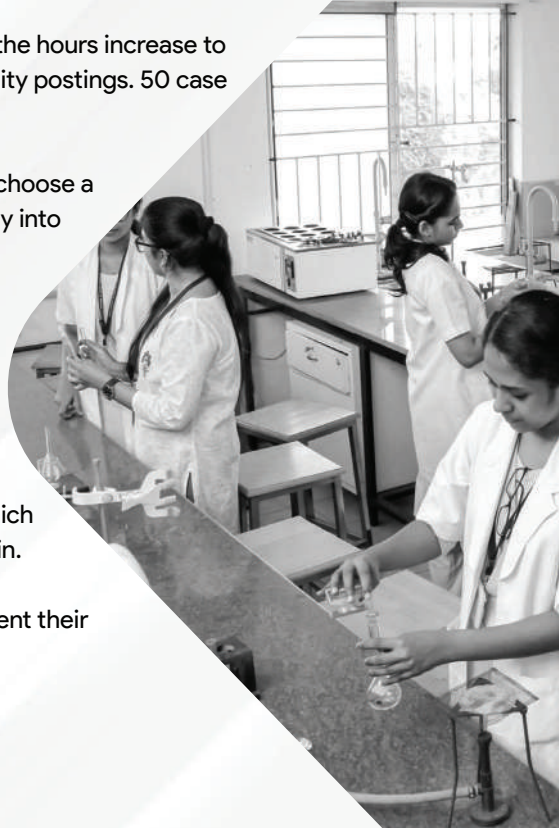

- Hands-on-training at Amrita, a 1300 bedded tertiary level super speciality hospital.
- Course structure enables students to pursue higher education at International Universities.

Clinical Postings

- First-year students are exposed to a clinical setting, in the fields of general medicine, general surgery, paediatrics, psychiatry, obstetrics and gynaecology covering a total of 750 hours a year, entailing a 3 hour posting/day. At the end of the academic year, 25 case studies are to be submitted from their experience.
- As the students move on to their second year, the hours increase to 5 hours/day, wrapping in them 10 super speciality postings. 50 case studies are expected.
- As the two-years wind up, the students get to choose a specialization of their choice and work their way into excelling it, through an internship of 6-months.

Research

- Through the course of the post-graduation program, the students are expected to design a mini project and dissertation of their own, which will open up a wide range of platforms to work in.
- We render encouragement to publish and present their papers on renowned platforms.
