

2021-2022 Annual Report

POSITIVELY YOUTHFUL

This past year has given us many reasons to smile, to cheer, and to renew our commitment to the diverse youth of San Francisco—ensuring that they all have a voice in their futures and pathways to success.

CYC has responded creatively to the community's needs in the past year, expanding our Multi-racial Advocacy and Justice work and bringing important attention to youth mental health challenges during the COVID era. We've been optimistic and foresightful, breaking ground at the new Richmond Community Hub and excitedly looking forward to opening our doors for this new facility in 2023.

Our many champions across the city and across generations help us stay youthful. I thank you for your heartfelt support and encourage you to explore this year's annual report to see how together we are making a difference.

Warmly,

COMMUNITY. YOUTH. CENTER.

After two years of intermittent sheltering in place, this year we were able to resume all our usual in-person services and community events, which were all the more joyous and meaningful after our time spent apart.

Working with partners like Sheriffs and You Foundation and TP Motorsports, CYC distributed toys and groceries throughout the city during the December holidays. Youth in our programs volunteered and led group projects like planting trees and writing holiday cards for seniors, ensuring that the season was a joyous one.

We deeply appreciate our many partners throughout the community. Here, the SF Chinatown Lions Club is dropping off face masks, hand sanitizers, portable power stations, and a projector at our Bayview Office, helping deliver our services effectively and safely in the Bayview.

COMMUNITY. YOUTH. CENTER.

Although we all adapted to virtual events during the pandemic, our 52nd Annual Gala was all the more exuberant because we could safely gather in-person once more. We appreciated every smile, all the feels, and all the support which made the 2022 gala our most successful fundraiser ever.

COMMUNITY. YOUTH. CENTER.

Above: CYC welcomed spring—and welcomed youth, families, and friends from across Chinatown—with the annual Chinatown Springtime Festival, one of many neighborhood events we celebrate each year.

Right (top and bottom): In August, CYC outreach teams took part in National Night Out, promoting community safety across the city. Also in August, we celebrated—with our community partners, Bayview Youth Advocates, and the winning artists—the unveiling of the beautiful Youth Unity Mural in Bayview, promoting racial solidarity.

COMMUNITY. YOUTH. CENTER.

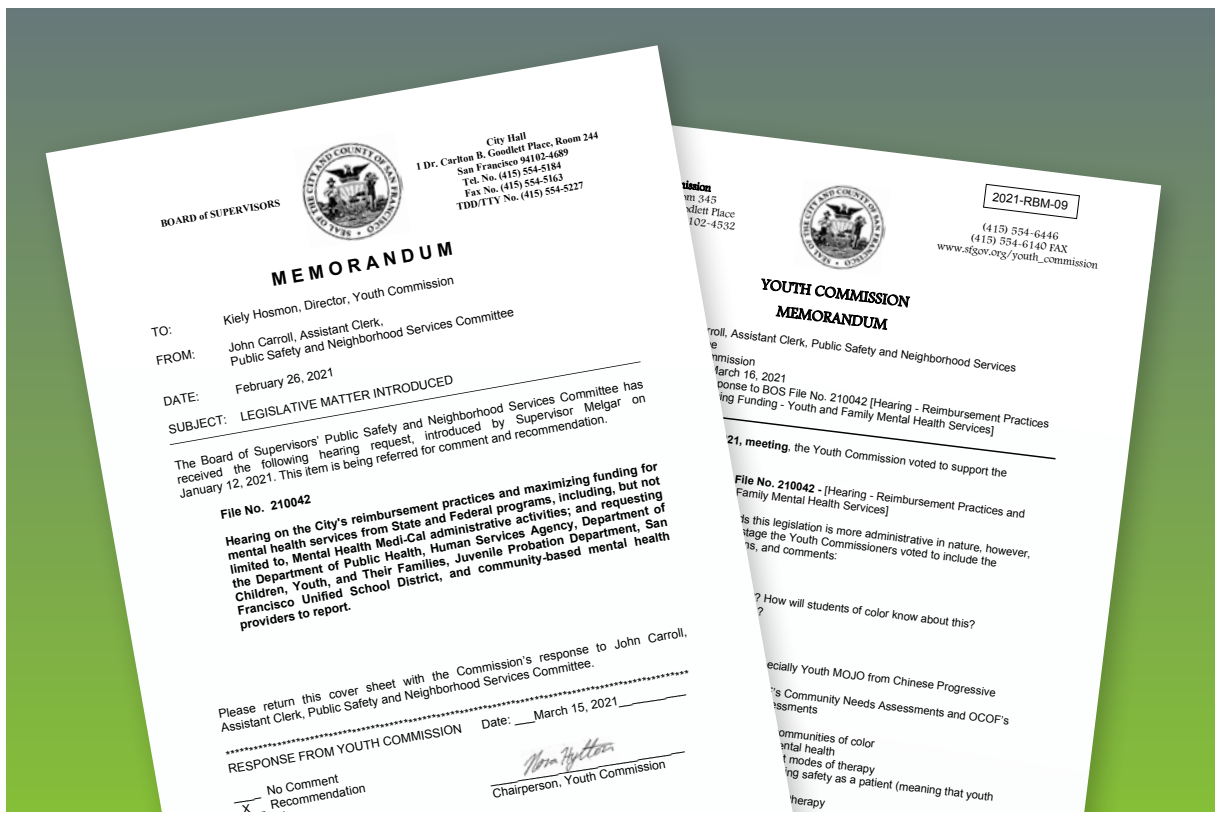

The COVID-19 pandemic has had a transformative effect on all our lives. We've seen and been inspired by many examples of youth stepping into new leadership roles, serving as role models during long periods of sheltering in place and virtual school attendance.

As our parents know well, each June when school lets out... CYC summer programs kick into high gear! Our elementary, middle, and high school programs this year positively exuded creativity. From building circuits to making tostadas to designing art projects, our youth have a lot to be proud of... and new skills and friendships that will last long beyond the summer.

COMMUNITY. YOUTH. CENTER.

The rise of xenophobic hatred and violence against the API community has been a particularly troubling trend during COVID era. A less visible, but just as concerning, effect of the pandemic has been its impact on youth mental health. Our city's youth are dealing, often, with trauma, illness, and significantly stretched or altered family, social, and academic relationships. Underserved and culturally/linguistically isolated youth are in danger of falling further behind and not having access to vital mental health and supportive services.

The District 7 Youth Council (D7YC) is made up of high school students from District 7, who meet regularly to discuss issues affecting the neighborhood. For their final project this term, the D7YC students in this year's cohort focused on youth mental health and the need for an increase in services targeting youth. They prepared a resolution that students Jin Valencia-Tow and Jason Fong presented to the SF Youth Commission, a body of 15 young people in San Francisco, appointed by the Mayor and Board of Supervisors to advise city officials regarding youth needs. The Commission unanimously passed the resolution.

COMMUNITY. YOUTH. CENTER.

In May, CYC youth hosted the first-ever AAPI Mental Health Experience summit to shine a light on youth mental health issues. The event included culturally attuned workshops, expert guest speakers, and diverse panels for youth ages 14-24. We were inspired by the bravery and positivity of all the youth who attended and were so open in sharing their stories with each other.

The 15th Annual AAPI Youth Summit in May 2022 was a tremendous success. CYC youth leaders led engaging discussions about mental and physical health, anti-Asian hate, beauty standards, social media dangers, allyship, and civic engagement.

COMMUNITY. YOUTH. CENTER.

CYC has worked in the Richmond District for over three decades providing opportunities for young people to excel in their lives. Our love and support for the neighborhood and its residents have inspired us to purchase the building at 952 Clement Street for a new community hub. The Richmond Community Hub will revitalize this essential community, providing support and connection for decades to come.

Visit our website to learn more and support the Richmond Community Hub Capital Campaign.

The Richmond Community Hub will:

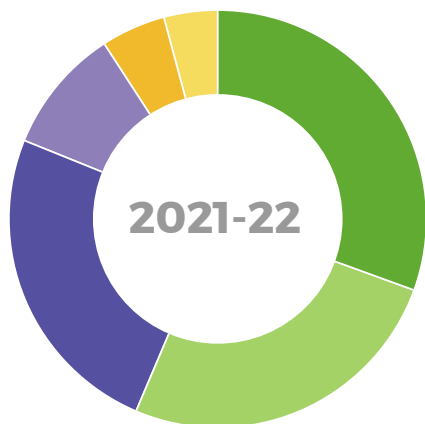

- Expand education and employment opportunities to young people, low-income adults, and older adults
- Foster social connection through a mix of culturally and linguistically appropriate outreach, workshops, services, and community events
- Enhance partnerships with local organizations
- Support cultural pride and a family-centered approach
