PURPOSE OF THE BILL

The purpose of H.R. 812 is to provide for Indian trust fund management reform.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

The term “federal trust responsibility to Indians” is frequently referenced to characterize the federal government’s obligation to carry out terms of treaties and statutes in a just manner for the benefit of Indians. There is, however, no general statutory definition of “trust responsibility.” The term developed from early 19th century Supreme Court decisions holding that recognized Indian tribes are “domestic dependent nations”¹ over which Congress exercises exclusive and plenary power. Accordingly, tribes’ lands and affairs were managed by the United States (first by the War Department and then by the Interior Department) “under a highly paternalistic system where the presumptively knowledgeable Secretary protects incompetent wards.”² The record of this historic system of comprehensive federal supervision over tribal affairs is one of exceptionally high rates of poverty, joblessness, health problems, and suicide across large segments of Indian Country. As a former Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs has stated:

With these ideas as the foundation of the trust, it grew into a stifling, paternalistic, and ultimately ineffective system of managing Indian property. While virtually all other areas of federal Indian policy have undergone dramatic change, with a radical shifting of authority from the Bureau of Indian Affairs to tribal governments, the trust remains largely ineffective, unenforceable, and immune from fundamental change.³

The modern era of promoting tribal self-determination was launched by President Richard M. Nixon. In his Special Message on Indian Affairs (July 8, 1970), President Nixon argued, “It is long past time that the Indian policies of the Federal government began to recognize and build upon the capacities and insights of the Indian people.” He would later add, “In place of policies which oscillate between the deadly extremes of forced termination and constant paternalism, we suggest a policy in which the Federal government and the Indian community play complementary roles.”

Congress subsequently enacted the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (ISDEAA, 25 U.S.C. 450 et seq.), which authorizes tribes to deliver federal services and benefits to their members under negotiated contracts, compacts, or annual funding agreements with the government. In addition to authorizing these “638 contracts,” Congress in consultation with tribes has enacted a number of laws designed to increase the opportunity for tribes to assume greater degrees of administration over their assets.

While tribes over the last 40 years have increased their capacity to administer federal funds and services, most of their lands and tribal funds continue to be held in trust by the Secretary of the Interior, an arrangement that is often a hindrance to Indian prosperity. Some statutes require the Secretary to perform comprehensive control over an Indian asset in a manner that exposes taxpayers to enormous liabilities if the Secretary mismanages trust assets. In these cases, the Secretary’s primary concern is risk avoidance, which may benefit the taxpayer but not the tribe. Other statutes authorize the Secretary to perform merely basic administrative duties for Indians with no enforceable fiduciary standards. Accordingly, an Indian trust asset could be underutilized or even mismanaged with no meaningful remedy available to the beneficial owner of that asset.

Need for Legislation

Because the current paradigm of the trust responsibility as conceived and implemented by the government has, in the view of at least one prominent Indian critic, “wreak[ed] all manner of harm on tribal communities,”⁴ H.R. 812 sets forth a process by which a tribe may opt to assume direct control over its trust assets, providing the United States taxpayer is not held financially liable by any party for losses incurred as a result. Title I sets forth Congressional findings and a reaffirmation of policy concerning the United States’ trust responsibilities to Indians. Title II authorizes a demonstration project in which an Indian tribe may be authorized to negotiate to assume management and control of its non-mineral trust assets under a plan approved by the Secretary of the Interior. Title III elevates the status of Indian Affairs responsibilities by granting the Secretary of the Interior the option to create a new Under Secretary for Indian Affairs, who would work directly with the Special Trustee for American Indians to ensure an orderly transition of Office of the Special Trustee functions.

Sec. 206. Effect of Title. Provides that nothing in this title or in a trust asset management plan shall affect the liability of the United States or an Indian tribe participating in the project. Provides that nothing in this title shall affect application of any treaty, statute, executive order applicable to the trust assets or the management of the trust assets subject to the plan. Provides that nothing in this title diminishes or affects the trust responsibility of the United States to Indian tribes or individual Indians. Subsection 206(d) clarifies that title II does not preclude Indian tribes from performing activities in a trust asset management plan under the ISDEAA. Section 206(e) clarifies that an Indian tribe may submit tribal regulations that provide for HEARTH Act treatment for forest management activities for review and approval without submitting them as part of a trust asset management plan.

TITLE III—IMPROVING EFFICIENCY AND STREAMLINING PROCESSES

Sec. 301. Purpose. Provides that the purpose of this title is to ensure efficient and streamlined administration of duties of the Secretary with respect to providing services and programs to Indian tribes and Indians, including the management of Indian trust resources.

Sec. 302. Definitions. Provides definitions for this title.

Sec. 303. Under Secretary for Indian Affairs. Authorizes the Secretary, at the Secretary’s discretion, to establish the position of Under Secretary for Indian Affairs, who would report directly to the Secretary. In addition to other enumerated duties, the Under Secretary would coordinate the Office of the Special Trustee to ensure an orderly transition of the functions of the Special Trustee to the appropriate agencies, offices, or bureaus with the Department. This subsection also allows for the Under Secretary to provide regular consultation with Indian tribes and Indians that own interests in trust resources and trust fund accounts. Lastly, Section 303(b) provides that the Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs within the Department of the Interior may assume the position of Under Secretary without appointment if the Secretary was appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, and the assumption shall not occur later than 180 days after enactment of the Act.

Sec. 304. Office of Special Trustee for American Indians. Directs the Secretary to submit to Congress within one year of enactment, among other things, information on a transition plan for the Office of the Special Trustee (OST) to terminate within two years of the date of the submission. Directs the Secretary to consult with Indian tribes and tribal organizations on the information to be submitted to Congressional authorizing and appropriations committees. The Act does not require the Secretary to implement or execute the transition plan. Section 304(b) authorizes Indian tribes or a consortium of Indian tribes to include certain OST employees known as fiduciary trust officers in contracts, compacts, or cooperative agreements under the ISDEAA.

Sec. 305. Appraisals and Valuations. Section 305(a) requires the Secretary, within 18 months of enactment, in consultation with Indian tribes and tribal organizations, to ensure that appraisals and valuations of Indian trust property are administered by a single bureau, agency or other administrative entity within the Department. Sections 305(b) and (c) establish a process whereby the Secretary establishes minimum qualifications for persons to prepare appraisals and valuations of Indian trust property. When an Indian tribe or Indian beneficiary submits an appraisal or valuation to the Secretary that satisfies those minimum qualifications—and the submission acknowledges the tribe or beneficiary’s intent to have the appraisal or valuation considered under this new subsection—the appraisal or valuation will not require any further Secretarial review or approval and will be considered final for purposes of effectuating the applicable transaction, regardless of the length of time required to obtain other approvals that may be necessary to complete the underlying transaction.

Sec. 306. Cost Savings. Provides that for any function or activity of OST which will not be carried out as a result of any transfer of functions or personnel under this title, the Secretary shall identify any resulting cost savings and provide this information to the Tribal-Interior Budget Council (TBIC) within 60 days, or other appropriate advisory committee. Within 90 days of receiving this information, the tribal representatives of the TBIC or other advisory committee may provide recommendations to the Secretary on how any cost savings should be reallocated, incorporated into future budget requests or appropriated.

COMMITTEE ACTION

H.R. 812 was introduced on February 9, 2015, by Congressman Michael K. Simpson (R-ID). The bill was referred to the Committee on Natural Resources, and within the Committee to the Subcommittee on Indian, Insular and Alaska Native Affairs. On April 14, 2015, the Subcommittee held a hearing on the bill. On February 2, 2016, the Natural Resources Committee met to consider the bill. The Subcommittee was discharged by unanimous consent. Chairman Rob Bishop (R-UT) offered an amendment in the nature of a substitute. The amendment was adopted by unanimous consent. The bill, as amended, was ordered favorably reported to the House of Representatives by unanimous consent on February 3, 2016.

COMMITTEE OVERSIGHT FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Regarding clause 2(b)(1) of rule X and clause 3(c)(1) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee on Natural Resources' oversight findings and recommendations are reflected in the body of this report.

COMPLIANCE WITH HOUSE RULE XIII

1. Cost of Legislation. Clause 3(d)(1) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives requires an estimate and a comparison by the Committee of the costs which would be incurred in carrying out this bill. However, clause 3(d)(2)(B) of that Rule provides that this requirement does not apply when the Committee has included in its report a timely submitted cost estimate of the bill prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office under section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974. Under clause 3(c)(3) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 403 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, the Committee has received the following cost estimate for this bill from the Director of the Congressional Budget Office:

Under current law, the Department of the Interior (DOI) is responsible for managing financial assets held in trust by the federal government for the benefit of Indian tribes. H.R. 812 would amend current law to give tribes more authority to manage their own assets. The bill also would expand tribes' authority to enter into leases for certain services and activities on tribal land—particularly related to management of tribally owned natural resources—without DOI's approval.

CBO does not expect that implementing H.R. 812 would affect the federal government's overall costs to provide services and other assistance to tribes. Under current law, some of those costs are incurred directly by DOI; in other cases, the department provides financial support for tribes to perform such work. In the latter case, DOI typically retains a role in approving and overseeing contracts and other agreements entered into by the tribe for such activities.

Under the bill, to the extent that tribes shift toward hiring non-federal contractors to manage financial assets, DOI might face increased costs to review and approve such contracts. At the same time, CBO expects that expanding tribes' authority to use certain leases to procure services related to natural resources owned by the tribe would reduce the department's administrative workload. Taken as a whole, CBO estimates that any net change in federal costs—which would be subject to appropriation—would be insignificant in any given year.

Because enacting H.R. 812 would not affect direct spending or revenues, pay-as-you-go procedures do not apply. CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 812 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2027.

H.R. 812 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act. Any costs incurred by tribes as a result of using additional authority granted by the bill would be incurred voluntarily.

On January 29, 2016, CBO transmitted a cost estimate for S. 383, the Indian Trust Asset Reform Act, as ordered reported by the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs on July 29, 2015. H.R. 812 is similar to S. 383 and CBO's estimates of the budgetary effects are the same.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Megan Carroll. The estimate was approved by H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

2. Section 308(a) of Congressional Budget Act. As required by clause 3(c)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 308(a) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, this bill does not contain any new budget authority, spending authority, credit authority, or an increase or decrease in revenues or tax expenditures. The Congressional Budget Office estimates that implementing this bill would not “affect the federal government’s overall costs to provide services and other assistance to tribes” and “that any net change in federal costs—which would be subject to appropriation—would be insignificant in any given year.”

3. General Performance Goals and Objectives. As required by clause 3(c)(4) of rule XIII, the general performance goal or objective of this bill is to provide for Indian trust fund management reform.

EARMARK STATEMENT

This bill does not contain any Congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits as defined under clause 9(e), 9(f), and 9(g) of rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives.

COMPLIANCE WITH PUBLIC LAW 104-4

This bill contains no unfunded mandates.

COMPLIANCE WITH H. RES. 5

Directed Rule Making. The Chairman does not believe that this bill directs any executive branch official to conduct any specific rule-making proceedings.

Duplication of Existing Programs. This bill does not establish or reauthorize a program of the federal government known to be duplicative of another program. Such program was not included in any report from the Government Accountability Office to Congress pursuant to section 21 of Public Law 111-139 or identified in the most recent Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance published pursuant to the Federal Program Information Act (Public Law 95-220, as amended by Public Law 98-169) as relating to other programs.

PREEMPTION OF STATE, LOCAL OR TRIBAL LAW

This bill is not intended to preempt any State, local or tribal law.

CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW

If enacted, this bill would make no changes in existing law.
