SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) the native fish, wildlife, and plant species in the United States are part of a rich natural heritage and an important legacy to pass on to future generations;

(2) the populations of many native fish, wildlife, and plant species in the United States are in decline;

(3) scientists estimate that 1 in 5 animal and plant species in the United States is at risk of extinction, and many species are declining in numbers;

(4) threats to the survival and diversity of many native fish, wildlife, and plant species in the United States include the loss, degradation, fragmentation, and obstruction of natural habitats;

(5) climate change threatens native fish, wildlife, and plant species;

(6) the 2019 global assessment report from the Intergovernmental Science-Policy Platform on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services found that—

(A) 1,000,000 wildlife and plant species worldwide are now threatened with extinction; and

(B) 75 percent of the land-based environment, and approximately 66 percent of the marine environment, have been significantly altered by human actions;

(7) the conservation of new and existing landscape and seascape corridors, through which native species can transition from 1 habitat to another, plays an important role in helping—

(A) to conserve native biodiversity; and

(B) to ensure resiliency against impacts from a range of biotic and abiotic stressors;

(8) the conservation, restoration, and establishment of new ecological connections to facilitate the movement of species into more suitable habitats is a key climate change adaptation strategy;

(9) the protection of new and existing corridors is often one of the first steps in restoration and recovery planning;

(10) States have recognized the importance of habitat connectivity, including—

(A) a New England Governors and Eastern Canadian Premiers' Conference on the importance of connectivity for ecosystem adaptability and resilience, biodiversity, and human communities; and

(B) past Western Governors' Association policy resolution;

(11) the strategic plan of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service to respond to accelerating climate change entitled "Rising to the Urgent Challenge" acknowledges that "processes such as pollination, seed dispersal, nutrient cycling, natural disturbance cycles, predator-prey relations, and others must be part of the natural landscapes we seek to maintain or restore . . . and are likely to function more optimally in landscapes composed of large habitat blocks connected by well-placed corridors";

(12) Federal and State agencies continue to develop policies to address—

(A) the importance of conserving fish, wildlife, and plant corridors;

(B) the gap between science and management for at-risk species; and

(C) ecological connectivity; and

(13) Federal policies consistently recognize the importance of voluntary improvement projects by private landowners to habitat conservation and restoration for native species.

(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this Act are—

(1) to support a diverse array of native species, including species protected under Federal, State, and Tribal law, that have experienced or may experience habitat loss, degradation, fragmentation, or obstruction to connectivity;

(2) to provide long-term habitat connectivity for native species migration, dispersal, adaptation to climate and other environmental change, and genetic exchange;

- (3) to help restore wildlife movements that have been disrupted by habitat loss, degradation, fragmentation, or obstruction;
- (4) to facilitate coordinated landscape- and seascape-scale connectivity planning and management across jurisdictions; and
- (5) to support State, Tribal, local, voluntary private landowner, and Federal agency decisionmakers in the planning and development of National Wildlife Corridors.

PURPOSE OF THE BILL

The purpose of H.R. 2795 is to establish a National Wildlife Corridors system to provide for the protection and restoration of certain native fish, wildlife and plant species, as well as create a Tribal wildlife corridors system.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

Migration and habitat connectivity are key to the survival of many North American species. Some species must travel across large areas to find food or a mate;¹ other species complete annual migrations to breeding or feeding grounds. For example, each spring, thousands of Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem elk move from their lower altitude winter ranges to their higher altitude summer ranges.² The recovery of some endangered species also depends upon migrations: for example, the endangered Florida panther's distribution must push north in order for the population to reestablish across its historic range.³ Wildlife migration and distribution are also essential to species survival under human-induced climate change. For example, one meta-analysis study has estimated that terrestrial species are already moving to higher latitudes at a median rate of 16.9 kilometers per decade.⁴

However, much wildlife migration in North America is impeded by human-made infrastructure. Roads, fences, energy infrastructure, agricultural fields, pastures, and residential development all can block or detour migrating wildlife. Such habitat fragmentation hinders the movement of individual animals, the migration of populations, the search for food, and reproduction.⁵ If barriers exist that prevent species from reaching suitable habitat, species may be forced to live in unsuitable habitat, increasing their risk of extinction.⁶ In certain cases where highways cross commonly-used wildlife migration routes, public safety is threatened by an increased risk of vehicle-wildlife collisions.⁷

Developing and restoring wildlife corridors can allow species to complete their migrations and decrease wildlife collisions and related human injuries.⁸ Corridors vary widely in size and shape, and include natural corridors such as riparian zones and streams that naturally connect wetlands and watersheds, and artificially constructed ones such as overpasses and underpasses on highways.⁹

Thus far, states and tribes have led the way on designating and managing wildlife corridors. States like California and New Hampshire have passed legislation to protect wildlife corridors, and the Western Governors' Association and the Conference of New England Governors and Eastern Canadian Premiers have passed wildlife corridor resolutions. Tribes, including the Navajo, Southern Ute, Ute Mountain Ute, and the Jicarilla Apache, have taken actions to promote and study wildlife corridors. The federal government has also taken steps: in 2018, then—Secretary of the Interior Ryan Zinke issued Secretarial Order 3362 to improve habitat quality in western big game winter range and migration corridors for antelope, elk, and mule deer.

A federal wildlife corridor program would bring together states, tribes, and the federal government to more effectively implement wildlife corridors, because wildlife do not recognize borders. H.R. 2795 establishes a National Wildlife Corridors system to provide for the protection and restoration of certain native fish, wildlife and plant species, as well as creates a Tribal Wildlife Corridors system.

HEARINGS

For the purposes of section 103(i) of H. Res. 6 of the 116th Congress—the following hearing was used to develop or consider H.R. 2795: legislative hearing by the Subcommittee on Water, Oceans, and Wildlife held on October 17, 2019.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

Section 1. Short title; table of contents

Section 2. Findings and purposes

Section 3. Definitions

Title I—National Wildlife Corridor (NWC) System on Federal Land and Water

Section 101. National Wildlife Corridors. This section establishes a system of corridors on federal land and water to be known as the “National Wildlife Corridor System.” Corridors may be established by statute or administratively. Not later than 18 months after the enactment of this bill, the Secretary of the Interior, acting through the Director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS), must develop a strategy for the National Wildlife Corridor System to support native species subject to habitat loss, ensure coordination between federal agencies, and develop a timeline for implementation.

Section 102. Administrative designation of National Wildlife Corridors. This section sets standards for the establishment of NWCs by administrative action. Corridor designations may be made by the Secretaries of Agriculture, Commerce, Defense, the Interior, or Transportation, who are required to ensure new corridors are coordinated with existing or recognized federal, state, and tribal wildlife corridors; are based on the best available science; and support the connectivity, persistence, resilience, and adaptability of the target species. Corridors on military installations are prohibited from interfering with military capability and preparedness. Corridor nominations can be submitted by states, tribes, local governments, or relevant non-governmental organizations (NGOs); the relevant Secretary must respond to those nominations within one year.

Section 103. Management of National Wildlife Corridors. This section directs the relevant land management agencies to manage NWCs under their jurisdiction to improve habitat and connectivity for target native species by improving connectivity within the NWC, improving the resilience of native species to respond to climate change, restoring habitat, and removing or mitigating human-made barriers to improve wildlife movement. Any NWCs that span multiple jurisdictions require coordination among the relevant land management agencies, and in the case of intersections of NWCs with roads or highways, coordination with the Department of Transportation and nonfederal transportation agencies is also required to identify and implement mitigation strategies.

¹⁰H.R. 2, 116th Cong. tit. III, subtitle B (as passed by and engrossed in the House, July 1, 2020).

Section 104. Collaboration and coordination. This section authorizes the federal land management agencies to consult and coordinate with relevant entities—including state wildlife agencies, Indian tribes, local governments, partnerships such as regional fishery management councils, and NGOs—to identify and manage NWCs.

Section 105. Effect. This section clarifies that nothing in this bill affects any other species conservation law, or any state or Indian tribe’s authority to manage fish and wildlife.

Title II—Tribal Wildlife Corridors ¹¹

Section 201. Tribal Wildlife Corridors. This section directs the Secretary of the Interior to establish a regulatory process for nominating and designating Tribal Wildlife Corridors. To designate a Tribal Wildlife Corridor, a tribe’s nomination for a new corridor must support restoring historical habitat for connectivity, managing land for connectivity, and preventing new barriers to wildlife movement. Tribes may remove a designation by notifying the Secretary. This section also amends section 202 of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act (which directs the development and implementation of land use plans) to include Tribal Wildlife Corridor management. This section also clarifies that a tribe that has a Tribal Wildlife Corridor is eligible for grants under Section 301 of this bill.

Section 202. Protection of Indian tribes. This section clarifies that nothing in the Act affects the federal trust responsibility to Indian tribes. This section also provides tribes financial and privacy protections for sensitive data regarding natural, cultural, and religious resources. Information is exempt from Freedom of Information Act disclosure if that disclosure would cause a significant invasion of privacy, threaten human remains or other cultural items, or impede the use of traditional religious sites by practitioners.

Title III—Wildlife Movement Grant Program on Non-Federal Land and Water

Section 301. Wildlife movement grant program. This section establishes a wildlife movement grant program for regionally important connectivity projects that encourage native wildlife movement on non-federal land and water. These grants are available to private landowners, state wildlife and natural resources agencies, tribes, local governments, agricultural cooperatives, water authorities, universities, and entities approved by regional wildlife movement councils.

Section 302. National Coordination Committee. This section establishes a National Coordination Committee composed of the relevant Secretaries, directors of relevant agencies, two intertribal representatives, the chairs of each regional wildlife movement council, and not more than three representatives from NGOs or scientific or academic organizations. The National Coordination Committee shall establish standards and criteria for soliciting and managing grants and make annual recommendations to the Secretary for the selection of grant recipients. The relevant Secretaries must also consider the National Coordination Committee’s recommendations when deciding on designating an NWC.

Section 303. Regional wildlife movement councils. This section creates at least four regional wildlife movement councils, composed of state fish and wildlife agency directors and representatives from tribal governments, FWS, NGOs, and private landowners. Each regional wildlife movement council shall develop a regional wildlife movement plan, provide for public and tribal engagement, solicit applications for wildlife movement grants, and submit to the National Coordination Committee an annual list of regional priority projects for grants and an annual report describing the council’s activities.

Title IV—National Wildlife Corridors Database

Section 401. National wildlife corridors database. This section directs the U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) to establish a “National Wildlife Corridors Database.” The Database will include maps, data, models, surveys, and descriptions of current and projected climate-related shifts in habitats, wildlife movements, and corridors. The Database must be designed to enable the assessment of natural resource adaptation strategies, impacts of various development projects on native species habitats and the NWCs, and strategies that promote habitat connectivity.

Title V—Funding

Section 501. Wildlife Corridors Stewardship Fund. This section establishes a Wildlife Corridor Stewardship Fund to assist in the management of NWCs, consisting of donations collected by the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation.

Section 502. Working landscapes. This section authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to support habitat connectivity and restoration activities through existing conservation programs.

Section 503. Authorization of Appropriations. This section authorizes:

- $18 million per fiscal year beginning in 2020 for the National Wildlife Corridor System;
- $5 million per fiscal year beginning in 2020 for Tribal Wildlife Corridors;
- $50 million per fiscal year beginning in 2022 for the Wildlife Movement Grant Program;
- $1 million per year for regional wildlife movement councils, proportionally divided among regions; and
- $3 million for fiscal year 2020 and $1.5 million annually beginning in fiscal year 2021 for the National Wildlife Corridors Database.

Bill Summary: H.R. 2795 would establish a framework for federal agencies to designate wildlife corridors on federal and tribal land and waters, and would direct the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) to award grants to states and other entities to manage wildlife movement on nonfederal land. The bill would authorize appropriations totaling $355 million over the 2020–2025 period for those purposes.

Estimated Federal cost: The estimated budgetary effect of H.R. 2795 is shown in Table 1. The costs of the legislation fall primarily within budget function 300 (natural resources and environment).

CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 2795 would increase direct spending by an insignificant amount.

Basis of estimate: For this estimate, CBO assumes that the legislation will be enacted late in fiscal year 2020 and that the authorized amounts will be appropriated in each year. Estimated outlays are based on historical spending patterns for similar activities.

H.R. 2795 would authorize appropriations totaling $355 million over the 2020–2025 period. CBO estimates that implementing the bill would cost $245 million over the same period.

National Wildlife Corridors: Title I would establish the National Wildlife Corridor System on federal land and waters to protect the movement of native species. The bill would authorize the annual appropriation of $18 million starting in 2020 for the Departments of Agriculture, Defense, Commerce, Transportation, and the Interior to issue regulations on designating wildlife corridors and to manage those corridors. CBO estimates that implementing title I would cost $97 million over the 2020–2025 period.

Tribal Wildlife Corridors: Title II would direct USFWS to establish a program to designate wildlife corridors on tribal land and to provide related technical assistance to tribes. The bill would authorize the annual appropriation of $5 million starting in 2020 for that purpose. CBO estimates that implementing title II would cost $29 million over the 2020–2025 period.

Wildlife Movement Grants: Title III would direct USFWS to award grants to states, tribes, and other entities to support wildlife movement on nonfederal land. The bill would establish a national coordination committee with representatives from federal agencies, state agencies, and tribal governments to establish criteria for grant applications and to recommend projects to USFWS. Title III also would direct USFWS to establish regional councils to develop regional wildlife movement plans and solicit applications for grants. H.R. 2795 would authorize the annual appropriation of $50 million for those grants, starting in 2022. CBO estimates that implementing title III would cost $103 million over the 2020–2025 period.

Other Provisions: H.R. 2795 would authorize appropriations totaling $10.5 million over the 2020–2025 period for the U.S. Geological Survey to establish and maintain a database on national wildlife corridors. The bill also would authorize the annual appropriation of $1 million starting in 2020 for USFWS to provide administrative support to the regional councils established under title III. CBO estimates that implementing those provisions would cost $16 million over the 2020–2025 period.

Pay-As-You-Go considerations: The Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act of 2010 establishes budget-reporting and enforcement procedures for legislation affecting direct spending or revenues. H.R. 2795 would authorize USFWS to accept cash donations; such collections are classified in the budget as offsetting receipts, which are shown as reductions in direct spending, and those amounts would be available to spend without further appropriation. CBO expects that any donations would be offset soon thereafter by expenditures and thus the net effect on direct spending would be negligible.

Income from mineral leasing, timber production, grazing, and special use permits is classified in the budget as offsetting receipts. Under H.R. 2795, the federal government could forgo receipts because land designated as wildlife corridors could be withdrawn from availability for those uses; however, CBO estimates that any reduction in those receipts would be insignificant over the 2020–2030 period.

Increase in long-term deficits: CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 2795 would not increase on-budget deficits by more than $5 billion in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2031.

Mandates: None.

Estimate prepared by: Federal Costs: Janani Shankaran; Mandates: Andrew Laughlin.

Estimate reviewed by: Susan Willie, Chief, Natural and Physical Resources Cost Estimates Unit; H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Director of Budget Analysis.

2. General Performance Goals and Objectives. As required by clause 3(c)(4) of rule XIII, the general performance goals and objectives of this bill are to establish a National Wildlife Corridors system to provide for the protection and restoration of certain native fish, wildlife and plant species, as well as create a Tribal wildlife corridors system.

EARMARK STATEMENT

This bill does not contain any Congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits as defined under clause 9(e), 9(f), and 9(g) of rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives.

UNFUNDED MANDATES REFORM ACT STATEMENT

This bill contains no unfunded mandates.

FEDERAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE ACT STATEMENT

Section 302 of the bill establishes a National Coordination Committee, and Section 303 establishes several regional wildlife movement councils. In reporting the bill favorably to the House of Representatives, the Committee on Natural Resources finds that these functions would be better performed by the proposed entities than by one or more agencies or an existing advisory committee.

EXISTING PROGRAMS

This bill does not establish or reauthorize a program of the federal government known to be duplicative of another program. Such program was not included in any report from the Government Accountability Office to Congress pursuant to section 21 of Public Law 111-139. The Wildlife Movement Grant Program required by section 301 of the bill is related and complementary to, but not duplicative of, the following programs identified in the most recent Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance published pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 6104: Conservation Reserve Program (CFDA No. 10.069), Environmental Quality Incentives Program (CFDA No. 10.912), Conservation Stewardship Program (CFDA No. 10.924), Agricultural Conservation Easement Program (CFDA No. 10.931), Fish, Wildlife and Plant Conservation Resource Management (CFDA No. 15.231), Plant Conservation and Restoration Management (CFDA No. 15.245), Threatened and Endangered Species (CFDA No. 15.246), Wildlife Resource Management (CFDA No. 15.247), and Partners for Fish and Wildlife (CFDA No. 15.631).

APPLICABILITY TO LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

The Committee finds that the legislation does not relate to the terms and conditions of employment or access to public services or accommodations within the meaning of section 102(b)(3) of the Congressional Accountability Act.

PREEMPTION OF STATE, LOCAL, OR TRIBAL LAW

Any preemptive effect of this bill over state, local, or tribal law is intended to be consistent with the bill's purposes and text and the Supremacy Clause of Article VI of the U.S. Constitution.

CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW MADE BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED

In compliance with clause 3(e) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, changes in existing law made by the bill, as reported, are shown as follows (existing law proposed to be omitted is enclosed in black brackets, new matter is printed in italics, and existing law in which no change is proposed is shown in roman):

FEDERAL LAND POLICY AND MANAGEMENT ACT OF

* * * * *

DISPOSITION

* * * * *

LAND USE PLANNING

SEC. 202. (a) The Secretary shall, with public involvement and consistent with the terms and conditions of this Act, develop, maintain, and, when appropriate, revise land use plans which provide by tracts or areas for the use of the public lands. Land use plans shall be developed for the public lands regardless of whether such lands previously have been classified, withdrawn, set aside, or otherwise designated for one or more uses.

(b) In the development and revision of land use plans, the Secretary of Agriculture shall coordinate land use plans for lands in the National Forest System with the land use planning and management programs of and for Indian tribes by Indian tribes—

(1) by among other things, considering the policies of approved tribal land resource management programs~~].~~; and

(2) for the purposes of determining whether the land use plans for land in the National Forest System would provide additional connectivity to benefit the purposes of a Tribal Wildlife Corridor established under section 10(a)(1) of the Wildlife Corridors Conservation Act of 2019.

(c) In the development and revision of land use plans, the Secretary shall—

(1) use and observe the principles of multiple use and sustained yield set forth in this and other applicable law;

(2) use a systematic interdisciplinary approach to achieve integrated consideration of physical, biological, economic, and other sciences;

(3) give priority to the designation and protection of areas of critical environmental concern;

(4) rely, to the extent it is available, on the inventory of the public lands, their resources, and other values;

In implementing this directive, the Secretary shall, to the extent he finds practical, keep apprised of State, local, and tribal land use plans; assure that consideration is given to those State, local, and tribal plans that are germane in the development of land use plans for public lands; assist in resolving, to the extent practical, inconsistencies between Federal and non-Federal Governmental plans, and shall provide for meaningful public involvement of State and local government officials, both elected and appointed, in the development of land use programs, land use regulations, and land use decisions for public lands, including early public notice of proposed decisions which may have a significant impact on non-Federal lands. Such officials in each State are authorized to furnish advice to the Secretary with respect to the development and revision of land use plans, land use guidelines, land use rules, and land use regulations for the public lands within such State and with respect to such other land use matters as may be referred to them by him. Land use plans of the Secretary under this section shall be consistent with State and local plans to the maximum extent he finds consistent with Federal law and the purposes of this Act.

(d) Any classification of public lands or any land use plan in effect on the date of enactment of this Act is subject to review in the land use planning process conducted under this section, and all public lands, regardless of classification, are subject to inclusion in any land use plan developed pursuant to this section. (e) The Secretary may issue management decisions to implement land use plans developed or revised under this section in accordance with the following:

(1) Such decisions, including but not limited to exclusions (that is, total elimination) of one or more of the principal or major uses made by a management decision shall remain subject to reconsideration, modification, and termination through revision by the Secretary or his delegate, under the provisions of this section, of the land use plan involved.

(2) Any management decision or action pursuant to a management decision that excludes (that is, totally eliminates) one or more of the principal or major uses for two or more years with respect to a tract of land of one hundred thousand acres or more shall be reported by the Secretary to the House of Representatives and the Senate. If the committee to which a resolution has been referred during the said ninety day period, has not reported it at the end of thirty calendar days after its referral, it shall be in order to either discharge the committee from further consideration of such resolution or to discharge the committee from consideration of any other resolution with respect to the management decision or action. A motion to discharge may be made only by an individual favoring the resolution, shall be highly privileged (except that it may not be made after the committee has reported such a resolution), and debate thereon shall be limited to not more than one hour, to be divided equally between those favoring and those opposing the resolution. An amendment to the motion shall not be in order, and it shall not be in order to move to reconsider the vote by which the motion was agreed to or disagreed to. If the motion to discharge is agreed to or disagreed to, the motion may not be made with respect to any other resolution with respect to the same management decision or action. When the committee has reprinted, or has been discharged from further consideration of a resolution, it shall at any time thereafter be in order (even though a previous motion to the same effect has been disagreed to) to move to proceed to the consideration of the resolution. The motion shall be highly privileged and shall not be debatable. An amendment to the motion shall not be in order, and it shall not be in order to move to reconsider the vote by which the motion was agreed to or disagreed to.

DISSENTING VIEWS

H.R. 2795 is predicated on the assumption that human and wildlife use of land is incompatible, despite thousands of years of experience to the contrary. In pursuit of this faulty assumption, this bill would vastly expand federal land holdings and impose severe restrictions on productive use of the land through the guise of wildlife corridors. This legislation is no more than the establishment of a new layer of federal bureaucracy for the classification of new federal lands throughout this country. This comes at a time when our public land infrastructure is suffocating under a more than $18 billion maintenance backlog.

Wildlife corridors do not require the heavy hand of federal bureaucrats to administer. In November 2018, then-Interior Secretary Zinke signed Secretarial Order 3362 which explicitly aims to protect migration corridors through greater coordination with States and private landowners.

Experience informs us that pipelines and other critical infrastructure are perfectly compatible with flourishing wildlife populations. For example, the Elbow Fish and Game Club in northern Pennsylvania and the Anadarko Petroleum Corporation have nurtured a partnership between wildlife and natural gas transportation. According to an analysis of the Whitetail Institute of North America, trail cameras along the pipeline have shown that “deer are using the right-of-way as a food source and travel corridor.” The analysis has stated that the tree clearing to establish the right-of-way has allowed sunlight to stimulate undergrowth that has lent itself as habitat to rabbits and songbirds.

As the Property and Environment Research Center so eloquently put it in a statement submitted for the record to the Subcommittee on Water, Oceans and Wildlife during an October 2019 hearing on the bill:

It is critical that efforts to conserve migration corridors transform wildlife from an economic liability into an asset for the private landowners who provide essential habitat. Corridors on federal land begin and end somewhere, and more often than not it is on private land. Lines on a map can be concerning to landowners who won't necessarily see federal interest in migration corridors as a good thing. Corridor designations should respect private property rights and not impose regulatory burdens on landowners. By respecting private property rights and using economic incentives in place of regulation, conservation efforts will better engage more landowners.

The proposed legislation does nothing to take into account the affect the establishment of federal wildlife corridors on public land will have on private property owners adjacent to these public lands and will ultimately amount to nothing more than increased burdensome federal regulation on these lands. For these reasons, many Republicans oppose this legislation in its current form.
