I. PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

S. 3423, the Chance to Compete Act, makes reforms to the process of hiring candidates into the federal competitive service. It would improve the process for examining candidates by incorporating skills-based and competency-based technical assessments and more centrally involving subject matter experts within agencies. The bill would also establish a platform to make it easier to share qualified candidates across agencies, as well as public dashboard to add transparency to the hiring process. In addition, the bill would codify an executive order in which agencies are no longer permitted to prescribe minimum educational requirements for a position, with some narrow exceptions. Finally, the bill would codify a current Administrative effort to encourage agencies to establish talent teams focused on improving the competitive examination and hiring process.

II. BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR THE LEGISLATION

Since 2001, the Government Accountability Office (GAO) has placed Strategic Human Capital Management on the High-Risk List.<sup>1</sup> GAO finds that: “Mission-critical skills gaps both within federal agencies and across the federal workforce pose a high risk to the nation because they impede the government from cost effectively serving the public and achieving results.”<sup>2</sup> The GAO also notes that although the causes of a skills gap vary, they are often due to shortfalls in talent management activities.<sup>3</sup>

The National Academy of Public Administration (NAPA) has released multiple white papers examining talent management strategies for addressing human capital challenges in the federal government.<sup>4</sup> The NAPA recommendations include calling on federal government to “empower talent managers [ . . . ] with a keen knowledge of the skills and competencies employees should master for a line of work.”<sup>5</sup> NAPA also suggests streamlining the hiring process by maintaining a pool of qualified workers so multiple vacancies can be filled more quickly.<sup>6</sup>

In 2020, a report published by the National Commission on Military, National, and Public Service describes issues with the federal hiring process that deter applicants and do not result in candidates that meet agency needs.<sup>7</sup> The Commission recommends that Congress reform federal hiring processes by moving away from the current style of resume reviews and self-assessments towards more advanced assessments that involve hiring managers and subject matter experts.<sup>8</sup>

President Biden’s Presidential Management Agenda in 2021 similarly acknowledges the negative impact that the federal government’s complex hiring process and long hiring times have had on the capacity of federal agencies to carry out their duties.<sup>9</sup> The President has recognized the need to adapt federal hiring processes to meet future demands.<sup>10</sup> In his budget request for fiscal year 2022, President Biden outlined his support for “agency efforts to expand and enhance recruitment and hiring of top talent, and to deploy more effective qualifying assessments to improve hiring outcomes.”<sup>11</sup> The Presidents budget request also called for the funding of agency talent teams as part of the effort to achieve better hiring outcomes.<sup>12</sup>

Despite a number of recommendations to reform the hiring system and move agencies away from using self-assessments, 97% of competitive job announcements across the federal government still rely on the self-assessment questionnaires and a human resources resume review.<sup>13</sup> In response, the Chance to Compete Act would take a number of steps to improve the way the federal government assesses and hires candidates into the civil service. The bill would build on a successful pilot conducted through the U.S. Digital Service (USDS), in partnership with the Office of Personnel Management (OPM).<sup>14</sup> Results of the pilot program include a reduction in the hiring time of applicable positions at the Department of Interior from 45 to 16 days on average and the Department ultimately hiring 52% of qualified candidates who applied, compared to zero candidates from baseline data.<sup>15</sup> In addition, the pool of hired applicants included veterans and a diversity in race, age, and gender.<sup>16</sup> In this model, subject matter experts are centrally involved in assessing the skills and competencies of applicants to ensure they are truly qualified for the work.<sup>17</sup>

Along with acting on the results of the pilot conducted by USDS and OPM, the Chance to Compete Act would establish a platform to make it easier to share qualified candidates across agencies, as well as a public dashboard to add transparency to the hiring process. The bill would also codify an executive order in which agencies are no longer permitted to prescribe minimum educational requirements for a position, with some narrow exceptions.<sup>18</sup> Finally, the bill would codify a current Administrative effort to encourage agencies to establish talent teams focused on improving the competitive examination and hiring process, as mentioned in the President’s fiscal year 2022 budget request.<sup>19</sup>

III. LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

Senator Krysten Sinema (D-AZ) introduced S. 3423, the Chance to Compete Act, on December 16, 2021, with Senator James Lankford (R-OK) and Senator Bill Hagerty (R-TN) as original co-sponsors. The bill was referred to the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs. Senator Thomas Carper (D-DE) joined as cosponsor on January 31, 2022.

The Committee considered S. 3423 at a business meeting on February 2, 2022. During the business meeting, Senator Sinema offered a modification to a substitute amendment. The substitute amendment made some definitions changes in the context of hiring in the federal competitive service, including the terms “examina-

The modification to the substitute amendment made technical corrections, such as restoring a paragraph that requires more specific transparency in the dashboard. #### IV. SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF THE BILL, AS REPORTED

Section 1. Short title

This section establishes the short title of the bill as the “Chance to Compete Act of 2022.”

Sec. 2. Definitions

Subsection (a) defines the terms “agency,” “Director,” “examining agency,” “Office,” “subject matter expert,” and “technical assessment” in the context of this bill.

Subsection (b) defines the term “competitive service” in the context of this bill.

Sec. 3. Defining the term “examination” for purposes of hiring the competitive service

Subsection (a) adds a new subsection regarding the examinations process to a section in title 5 related to hiring into the competitive service. The new subsection defines “examination” as an opportunity to directly demonstrate knowledge, skills, abilities, and competencies through a passing score assessment and as including a resume review conducted by a subject matter expert. The text specifies that after two years following the bill’s enactment, an examination cannot include other kinds of resume reviews, self-assessments, or any other methods based on educational attainment, alone. The new subsection defines the terms “agency,” “Director,” “examining agency,” “Office,” “passing score assessment,” “subject matter expert,” and “technical assessment” in the context of the new subsection. In addition, the new subsection specifies that subject matter experts at the hiring agency can develop position-specific assessments for the hiring process, in partnership with human resources employees at the agency. The subject matter expert may also administer the assessment to determine if an applicant is qualified for the position or to rank applicants for the position. Finally, the new subsection authorizes an agency to share technical assessments with other agencies. A receiving agency may customize the assessments so long as they continue to satisfy related requirements in federal regulations. The new subsection directs OPM to establish a platform that agencies can use to share and customize assessments.

Subsection (b) directs OPM and the heads of agencies to eliminate the use of examinations that do not align with the new definition of examination, per subsection (a), within two years after the date of enactment of this bill.

Subsection (c) requires OPM to maintain and periodically update a public dashboard with details on the hiring processes for positions in the competitive service, including the type of assessment and hiring authority used by the agency, as well as whether or not the agency selected a candidate. The subsection also requires OPM to annually submit a progress report with hiring summary data to Congress and make the report publicly available. The report must include data broken down by demographic indicator, such as veteran status, race, gender, and disability.

Subsection (d) directs the GAO to assess the implementation of this section and make recommendations for improvements to the hiring process for the competitive service.

Sec. 4. Amendments to Competitive Service Act of 2015

Subsection (a) amends existing language in title 5 to expand the length of time an individual may be selected from a “certificate of eligibles,” which is a referral list of the highest-ranked eligible candidates for a position in the same occupational series and at a similar grade level. The text increases the length of time for selection from 240 days to one year. This subsection would also add provisions to establish a platform for sharing resumes of individuals on a certificate of eligibles, operated by OPM.

Subsection (b) would add a new subsection to title 5 to maximize the sharing of qualified applicants across agencies. The new subsection defines the terms “agency,” “Director,” “Office,” and “competitive service” in the context of the new subsection. The text directs OPM to share certificates of eligibles with accompanying resumes and allow agencies to host multi-agency hiring actions.

Subsection (c) requires OPM to promulgate regulations to carry out this section within 180 days after the bill’s enactment.

Sec. 5. Modernizing and reforming the assessment and hiring of Federal job candidates

Subsection (a) amends existing language in title 5 related to prescribing minimum educational requirements for competitive service positions. It would limit the use of minimum educational requirements to positions that cannot be legally performed by an individual who does not have the minimum prescribed educational level.

Subsection (b) directs OPM to amend related guidance documents and regulations as needed to implement subsection (a). It also requires OPM and the heads of agencies to amend their hiring practices in this regard within one year after the bill’s enactment.

Sec. 6. Talent teams

Subsection (a) authorizes agencies to establish talent teams that provide hiring support to agencies in terms of improving examinations, facilitating the writing of job announcements, sharing of qualified applicants.

Subsection (b) authorizes OPM to establish a federal talent team to support agency talent teams, including support for developing technical assessments and sharing qualified applicants.

V. EVALUATION OF REGULATORY IMPACT

[Pursuant to the requirements of paragraph 11(b) of rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate, the Committee has considered the regulatory impact of this bill and determined that the bill will have no regulatory impact within the meaning of the rules. The Committee agrees with the Congressional Budget Office's statement that the bill contains no intergovernmental or private sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA) and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.]

VI. CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE COST ESTIMATE

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, November 9, 2022.

Hon. GARY C. PETERS,
Chairman, Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed table summarizing estimated budgetary effects and mandates information for some of the legislation that has been ordered reported by the Senate Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs during the 117th Congress.

If you wish further details, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact for each estimate is listed on the enclosed table.

Sincerely,

PHILLIP L. SWAGEL,
Director.

SUMMARY ESTIMATES OF LEGISLATION ORDERED REPORTED

The Congressional Budget Act of 1974 requires the Congressional Budget Office, to the extent practicable, to prepare estimates of the budgetary effects of legislation ordered reported by Congressional authorizing committees. In order to provide the Congress with as much information as possible, the attached table summarizes information about the estimated direct spending and revenue effects of some of the legislation that has been ordered reported by the Senate Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs during the 117th Congress. The legislation listed in this table generally would have small effects, if any, on direct spending or revenues, CBO estimates. Where possible, the table also provides information about the legislation's estimated effects on spending subject to appropriation and on intergovernmental and private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act.

ESTIMATED BUDGETARY EFFECTS AND MANDATES INFORMATION

Bill Number	Title	Status	Last Action	Budget Function	Direct Spending, 2023–2032	Revenues, 2023–2032	Spending Subject to Appropriation, 2023–2027	Pay-As-You-Go Procedures Apply?	Increases On-Budget Deficits Beginning in 2033?	Mandates	Contact
S. 3423	Chance to Compete Act of 2022	Ordered reported	02/02/2022	800	Between zero and $500,000	0	Not estimated	Yes	No	No	Matthew Pickford

S. 3423 would require federal agencies to prioritize hiring based on demonstrable skills (through technical assessments and examinations) rather than on educational requirements. To support those changes, the Office of Personnel Management would be required to create a platform to share examination tools and a public website that tracks the types of assessments used to fill open positions. CBO estimates that enacting S. 3423 would have an insignificant effect on direct spending and no effect on revenues over the 2023–2032 period. CBO has not estimated the discretionary costs of implementing S. 3423. The bill contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act.
