IMPACT REPORT 2020–2023

A MESSAGE FROM OUR FOUNDER

“ Our job is to be bold, to take risks—and to win mental health policy worthy of the millions of people who need help.

Bill Smith
Inseparable Founder and President

Since Inseparable launched in May 2020, people everywhere have asked me about the story behind our name. I tell them it's simple. The health of our minds cannot be separated from the health of our bodies, and when we come together on this issue, nothing can separate us as a force for change.

Five years ago this summer, my family and I lost my brother to mental illness. While I still don't have the words to fully describe this devastating loss, the memories of feeling helpless and angry at the difficulty of getting him the help he desperately needed remain.

As someone whose career has focused on building political power for social change, I spent the months after my brother's death wondering:

Why do we tolerate a system so broken that half the people who need mental health care never get it?

Why do we miss so many opportunities to help children when we know prevention and early intervention can ensure they live long, healthy lives?

Why do we routinely criminalize mental health, putting people in jail rather than getting them the help they need?

A MESSAGE FROM OUR FOUNDER

Along with a few close colleagues, I brought questions like these to advocates, doctors, therapists, caregivers, policy experts and people of all ages living with mental health conditions. As our conversations unfolded, so did the early months of the COVID pandemic. The fear, stress and uncertainty of this global crisis might have convinced us that this wasn't the time to start a new campaign like Inseparable. Instead, we came away with an unshakable belief that people from every town, city and home in the U.S. were ready to demand and win new mental health policies that will better care for us all.

I hope you'll enjoy this look at Inseparable's first 3 years. With your invaluable support, we have accomplished so much – but we've only just begun.

Our job is to build hope and power for those who need it the most. To be bold. To think in innovative ways. To take risks and advocate fearlessly. Put simply, we are here to win – and for those wins to change and save lives.

Bill Smith

Founder of Inseparable

“ Put simply, we are here to win — and for those wins to change and save lives.”

OUR VALUES

Caring

We can better care for each other by demanding mental health policies that better care for us all.

Fairness

Different communities have borne a disproportionate and unfair burden of our broken systems, so we must address fundamental unfairness as we create change.

Unity

The health of our minds cannot be separated from the health of our bodies, and we cannot be separated from each other on this issue.

Progress

We are moved by our hearts, but act with our minds, deploying skill, strategy, and innovative tactics to ensure we don't just fight, but win.

Power

Together, we have the power to lift each other up. Together, we are a formidable catalyst for change.

Relentless Hope

Providing hope for those who need it most is critical to our mission, and we will also build a movement by building hope intentionally and constantly.

HOW INSEPARABLE WORKS

We map policy opportunities, focusing on high-impact wins that can be achieved at the state and federal level.

We work closely with governors, legislators, candidates and staff members who show strong commitment to change.

We equip policymakers with research findings, reports and legislative guides that reveal gaps and opportunities. Testing and polling results help us refine messaging to fuel decisive wins.

We draft and vet legislation and budgets in selected states, partnering with top-tier lobbyists to build relationships and drive strategy.

We forge partnerships in local communities, providing sub-grants and helping advocates bring their powerful voices to policy discussions.

We engage stakeholders who will invest in our agenda, support our change campaigns and help us grow the mental health movement.

THE CHALLENGE

Where are the weaknesses in our mental health system?

In May 2020, as the pandemic sent shock waves of stress and uncertainty through every community, mental health needs reached crisis proportions. Inseparable quickly identified 3 priorities to guide our work.

Youth Mental Health

Identifying and treating mental health conditions early creates the best possible chance for lifelong health.

Access to Care

Nearly half of all people in the U.S. do not get the mental health treatment they need. Closing this gap will transform the lives of millions.

Better Crisis Response

Jails and prisons should never serve as our primary response to people in crisis. Punishment must be replaced with community-based care and support.

THE CHALLENGE

Youth Mental Health

Nearly half of all adolescents face mental health struggles at some point¹

● Around 15%

of teens aged 12 to 17 have experienced major depression²

● 37%

struggle with persistent feelings of sadness or hopelessness³

Research points to multiple risk factors for youth mental health, from biological to environmental – including:

- adverse childhood experiences
- racism
- school shootings
- social media
- fears about the world's future⁴

56% increase in suicides

among youth aged 10 to 24 since 2007⁵

45% of LGBTQ+ youth

seriously considered suicide in 2021⁶

THE CHALLENGE

Access to Care

If someone suffers a heart attack or a broken arm, we do not say to them, ‘We’ll get back to you in 3 weeks.’ Yet this is often what happens – or MUCH worse – when someone needs mental health care.

Inseparable Founder Bill Smith, in conversation with
MSNBC’s Chris Hayes

50 million

U.S. adults live with a mental health condition⁷

More than HALF

(28 million) receive NO care⁸

Every year since 2011

the share of U.S. adults in need of mental health care has risen⁹

6 in 10 psychologists say they have no openings for new patients¹⁰

who have received mental health treatment in the past year had a problem with their insurance¹¹

THE CHALLENGE

Better Crisis Response

On average, more than 5,400

jail bookings every day*

involve people with mental health conditions¹²

Contributing factors:

- Zero-tolerance policing
- Nuisance laws
- Belief that people with mental illness are violent
- Lack of crisis response alternatives

* 2 million per year

1 in 5

fatal police shootings involves someone in a mental health crisis¹³

50% to 75%

of youth in the juvenile justice system have a mental health condition¹⁴

MARCH

A generous grant from the Well Being Trust, Inseparable's first national funding partner, provides critical support for our early work.

MAY

Bill Smith appears on MSNBC's All In with Chris Hayes, calling out the pandemic's role in revealing the glaring gaps in mental health care.

Inseparable launches as two national organizations: Inseparable Inc., a 501(c)(3), and Inseparable Action, a 501(c)(4), the first advocacy campaign dedicated to building power for mental health.

We organize an advisory board of leading policy experts, doctors, strategists, movement leaders and people with lived experience in mental health.

JULY

Inseparable's #FundMentalHealth campaign creates a powerful, unified call for Congress to fund specific programs and priorities by building the baseline case for all. Highlights include a widely shared video featuring former U.S. Representative Patrick Kennedy, a successful phone campaign reaching targeted U.S. Senators and a sign-on letter with U.S. Representative David Trone's office that draws 58 signatures from U.S. House members.

AUGUST

Inseparable partners with Garen Staglin, co-founder of One Mind at Work, to publish an opinion piece in Forbes that outlines the role of Congress in addressing the growing mental health crisis.

SEPTEMBER

Following our grassroots campaign with the Well Being Trust, The Kennedy Forum and the Steinberg Institute, we celebrate as California Governor Gavin Newsom signs several measures, including gold-standard parity legislation for other states to follow. The new law requires health plans and insurers to cover medically necessary treatment for all mental health and substance use disorders.

OCTOBER

Our Personnel is Policy campaign advises the Biden-Harris administration on key appointments, supporting mental health champions such as Dr. Vivek Murthy, Marty Walsh, Xavier Becerra, Andrea Palm and Miriam Delphin-Rittmon.

DECEMBER

Working with members of our advisory board and dozens of mental health experts, advocates and federal policy leaders, Inseparable creates a list of 170 recommendations for federal-level agency actions and briefs the incoming Biden-Harris administration’s transition teams.

The 988 crisis line is in place, but people need more than a number. They need the right response in the right place, every time – so that no one’s worst day will determine the rest of their life.

Angela Kimball
Inseparable Senior VP of Advocacy and Public Policy

FEBRUARY

The Upswing Fund makes a generous grant to kick off Inseparable’s youth mental health work.

MARCH

Drawing on extensive conversations with our advisory board and leading mental health advocates, Inseparable defines 3 priorities for action: prevention and early intervention for youth, expanding access to lifesaving care and ending the criminalization of mental illness and addiction.

MAY

Inseparable launches the Hopeful Futures Campaign with 11 supporting partners, kicking off a multi-year effort to expand school-based mental health resources across the country. This campaign aligns with our earlier support for California legislation that would grant excused absences for students with mental health needs and more mental health training for teachers and school staff.

FEBRUARY

The Hopeful Futures Campaign releases America's School Mental Health Report Card, a first-of-its-kind, state-by-state report that prepares policymakers to act on gaps and opportunities.

APRIL

Inseparable advocacy leads to a new Alabama law requiring full-time mental health services coordinators in public school districts and private charter schools.

APRIL

Inseparable advocates in Illinois celebrate a big win as the state's General Assembly approves annual wellness checks for students in grades 7-12 and allocates $5 million for implementation.

JUNE

In Delaware, Inseparable helps secure passage of legislation requiring mental health education in grades K-12, insurance coverage for annual mental health checks and new ratios for counselors, social workers and psychologists in middle schools.

of Representatives*

JUNE

Inseparable celebrates the signing of the Bipartisan Safer Communities Act on the White House lawn. This federal legislation reflects our success in calling for more resources to support school mental health professionals ($1 billion), school-based program grants through Project AWARE ($240 million over 4 years), and the 988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline ($150 million).

JULY

Seeking to forge key relationships with state-level lawmakers, we release Inseparable's State Legislative Guide for School Mental Health in tandem with a showcase booth at the annual Legislative Summit of the National Conference of State Legislatures.

Working with Mental Health America, the American Psychological Association, and The Kennedy Forum, we kick off a partnership with the National Governors Association to equip governors to lead on youth mental health.

AUGUST

Our new State Legislative Mental Health Caucus brings together 42 state legislators from 20 states, creating a bipartisan community of peers devoted to better mental health care.

AUGUST

With the election season ahead of us, we launch the Mental Health Now campaign, asking candidates to sign a statement of support. By Election Day, 630+ leaders have signed on, including 10 governors, 6 U.S. Senate candidates and 45 House candidates.

The campaign draws candidates from all 50 states – a first in mental health advocacy.

OCTOBER

Joining with Healthier Colorado, Children’s Hospital Colorado and MindSite News, Inseparable co-hosts a forum with U.S. Senate candidates Michael Bennet and Joe O’Dea, the first event of its kind where federal candidates focus exclusively on mental health policy and solutions.

NOVEMBER

Mental health advocates from around the country and young adult leaders gather for our first Building Hope Strategy Summit at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C.

DECEMBER

We join fellow advocates in welcoming historic increases in funding for federal mental health block grants and behavioral health workforce programs, among other big wins – including a new requirement for Medicare to cover mobile crisis services.

WHERE WE ARE NOW

14 focused state campaigns with seasoned local experts, targeted paid communications and policy expertise to introduce and move policy and new funding through state legislatures.

A State Legislative Mental Health Caucus that, in less than one year, has grown to include 190 lawmakers in 43 states.

A best-in-class federal lobby team monitoring legislation and meeting regularly with key officials in multiple federal agencies to discuss mental health priorities.

A national staff with deep expertise in public policy, research, communications, civic engagement, campaign strategy and more.

An advisory board with many of the nation’s most prominent, thoughtful, dedicated mental health champions.

17 active grants and numerous private gifts from generous funding partners, with more financial support on the horizon.

National and local partners who bring their powerful voices, subject matter expertise, resources and followers to our change campaigns.

Research findings, reports and legislative guides that define where mental health policy is now – and where it needs to go in the future.

Chris Cordingley
Inseparable Co-founder

The Hopeful Futures Campaign

In 3 short years, Inseparable has become the leading organizer of campaigns to transform mental health for millions. With multiple successful campaigns under our belt – and many ongoing – we bring mental health experts, advocates and policymakers together to envision change and make it happen. Here’s a look inside one campaign that reveals how we set priorities, marshal resources and work together to achieve groundbreaking policy wins.

CAMPAIGN CLOSEUP: HOPEFUL FUTURES

Bedrock Insights

Every young person deserves the chance to thrive — now and throughout life.

Early treatment helps young people heal now and builds resilience for the future.

Half of all mental disorders begin by age 14, but not all young people get help.

Student and family voices are invaluable in driving school mental health policy.

The Framework

With strategic thinking from the National Center for School Mental Health to guide us, we adopted 8 criteria for measuring state-level support for school mental health:

1

Mental health staff in schools and districts

2

School-family-community partnerships

3

Teacher and staff training

4

Funding supports

5

Student well-being checks

6

Healthy school climate

7

Skills for success

8

Mental health education

Our Partners

AS OF JULY 2023

The campaign's strong and diverse coalition of partners shows broad support for advancing school mental health.

Baseline for Policy Action

Analyze strengths, gaps and successful models

We researched and published America's School Mental Health Report Card, a state-by-state analysis revealing gaps and opportunities – the first report of its kind in the mental health space.

Create a campaign action center

We created a channel to link activists with advocacy opportunities near them – a way to gather public support for state-level measures as policymakers take action.

Identify policy pacesetters

In our report card, we recognized forward-looking states whose tangible wins provide a roadmap for others to follow.

Launch in target states

We employed a campaign strategy in target states to drive school mental health policy.

Apply lessons learned

We learned what works and what doesn't – and scaled up to impact more students in more states.

Seeing Our Impact in Colorado

There are 289 public middle schools and 522 high schools across Colorado serving nearly 479,000 students. A statewide survey from 2021 reveals that far too many are engaged in a lonely struggle with mental health.

Of nearly 479,000 Colorado students:

50%
felt stressed every day

40% felt sad or hopeless for several weeks straight

7.2% attempted suicide in the previous year

20.3% engaged in self-harm

CAMPAIGN CLOSEUP: HOPEFUL FUTURES

Worse yet, nearly 27% said they do not have even one adult they can go to for help. Izzie House, a Denver high school student, called out their plight in an editorial for the Colorado Sun in March 2023.

“Too often, young people are left to deal with their problems on their own,” Izzie wrote. “Afraid that our problems ‘aren’t bad enough’ to seek professional help, we often keep it bottled up inside, where it only gets worse.”

Izzie shared her hope that House Bill 1003, then moving through the Colorado legislature with strong support from Mental Health Colorado (an Inseparable grantee) and many other advocates, would soon become law. The measure, Izzie explained, would create a mental health screening program for grades 6 through 12, relieving the pressure kids often feel in trying to evaluate themselves.

If a screening suggests that further action is needed, students and families can be connected to accessible resources such as the ‘I Matter Colorado’ program, she noted.

“ Kids going to school today tell me that they believe it is inevitable that one of their peers will die by suicide before they’re able to graduate high school. Unless we radically revamp the way we treat and talk about mental health with our kids, they will be right. ”

Representative Dafna Michaelson Jenet, writing in the Colorado Sun

CAMPAIGN CLOSEUP: HOPEFUL FUTURES

“‘I Matter’ can connect kids with therapists for free, in-person or online. This makes a world of difference for students and families — even if it’s a few initial sessions — because of how much it can help just to have someone to talk to or someone in your corner,” Izzie wrote.

Izzie’s voice is one of thousands raised in Colorado to support House Bill 1003, signed into law by Governor Jared Polis in May 2023.

This policy win means “that fewer kids will have to ride the school bus riddled with anxiety or shuffle through the halls worn down by depression, all the while wondering if this is normal or whether something’s really wrong,” Izzie believes.

“It shouldn’t be on them to jump through hoops, and, with this legislation, it won’t have to be.”

LOOKING AHEAD

“ Our first 3 years have created real momentum for new policy wins already on the horizon.

Amy Runyon-Harms
Inseparable Senior VP of Operations and Strategy

What started in 2020 as a small group of relentlessly hopeful people has quickly become a nationwide organization, laser-focused on building the political power to transform mental health in every community.

Here's a look at our ambitious goals.

LOOKING AHEAD

Score and Scale Policy Wins

Continue to advance meaningful legislative and administrative actions that will impact the lives of millions of children and adults with mental health and substance use challenges across the country.

Build Momentum for Policy Change

Publish new state-by-state report cards that reveal where states stand today in moving toward a better crisis response and closing the treatment gap.

Update America's School Mental Health Report Card to keep policymakers and the public informed.

Deepen our footprint with the National Conference on State Legislatures, the National Governors Association and leading national conferences.

Create compelling, targeted outreach campaigns to build our movement and expand our team of committed activists and partners.

Equip Policymakers to Win

Provide expert polling and qualitative research showing public support for mental health policies, backed by messaging that policymakers and partners can use to frame the conversation.

LOOKING AHEAD

Deploy effective campaign tools to activate constituent support and increase media coverage focused on influential lawmakers.

Support youth and parent voices as we partner with local grassroots influencers and grassroots organizations to create strong coalitions.

Serve as a hub for best-practice legislation and connection to leading national experts.

Grow Our Capacity to Advance Change

Expand our bipartisan State Legislative Mental Health Caucus, aiming to reach 250+ members in 2024.

Invest in young and emerging advocates whose energy and innovative ideas will build our movement. As part of this, Inseparable will launch a new Policy Fellows Program, a 12-month, skill-building fellowship aimed at training the next generation of leaders in mental health advocacy.

Expand our funding from generous, forward-thinking partners, both current and new – with more grants and gifts coming in over time.

Share insights from our 2022 Building Hope Strategy Summit with partners nationwide, supported by the technology, research and messaging needed to turn our best ideas into decisive policy wins.

Plan and host the 2024 Summit to align our collective efforts, transforming us into an unstoppable force for change.

“ Few organizations come to the mental health space and make an impact as rapidly and consequentially as Inseparable has.

They are founded on the premise that the mind and body are one, and any and all policies that stand in the way of this irrefutable truth should be addressed. Inseparable has achieved amazing policy success in states across the country – from blue states to red states, Inseparable proves that mental health is truly an issue that impacts us all, and with the right structure and team in place, major change can happen that benefits our families and our communities. Their comprehensive take on mental health means that the changes they are advocating for will have a lasting impact for generations to come.

Here are 7 essential ways you can fuel Inseparable’s work:

- 1 Join our network of committed, hopeful people who care about mental health.
- 2 Introduce us to mental health champions in your state or community.
- 3 Follow us on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, LinkedIn and Threads.
- 4 Share our posts and news with people in your networks.
- 5 Make mental health an open conversation in your home and community, because active dialogue is where change begins.
- 6 Hold your elected officials accountable, asking for their support on key measures that move mental health forward.
- 7 Make a gift to keep our good work going.
