

Community Partners List

Using a public health approach to violence prevention, ONE Lexington and its community partners use the P.I.E.R. strategy to guide our work of reducing gun violence among youth and young adults in Lexington. Our partners include neighbors and leaders representing the education, social services, justice, law enforcement, faith, and health sectors.

Prevention – Focusing on the root causes that lead to gun violence, changing social norms, and advocating for policies that make our neighborhoods safer.

Intervention – Supporting individuals, families, and neighborhoods who have been affected by gun violence.

Enforcement – Closing the trust gap between under-served communities and public safety.

Re-entry – Assisting incarcerated youth and young adults with successful transition to the community upon release as well as providing alternative sentencing opportunities.

Below is a list of the community partners in our violence prevention ecosystem that we work with on a weekly basis through through P.I.E.R. model.
