

17,000+ STRONG

To date more than 17,000 individuals hold an active Nationally Certified School Psychologist (NCSP) credential.

7000

NEW NCSPs IN THE
LAST FIVE YEARS

WHY BECOME AN NCSP?

National recognition and verification of graduate preparation, knowledge, and skills.

Demonstrated professional excellence and credibility for employers.

Reflects a high standard for practice to families, administrators, and other stakeholders.

Increased job flexibility and mobility through streamlined credentialing processes.

Potential for other employment benefits, including monetary stipends.

NATIONAL SCHOOL PSYCHOLOGY CERTIFICATION SYSTEM

The NCSP credential recognizes school psychologists who meet rigorous national standards for graduate preparation and continuing professional development.

The majority of states recognize the NCSP as a path to state-level certification.

The NCSP is open to members and nonmembers of the National Association of School Psychologists (NASP).