Professional Online Training Course on Reducing Inequalities

The Global Project on Reducing Inequalities on behalf of the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development (BMZ) organises the Professional Online Training Course on Reducing Inequalities on a regular basis.

The goal of the training course is to promote high-level knowledge transfer on inequalities and to provide a platform for discussion. To this end, participants will be presented with the concept of inequality as well as its trends and drivers. Furthermore, the participating policy makers will be encouraged to discuss concrete policies and policy recommendations to contribute to a more efficient reduction of inequalities in their own countries.

The target group is policy makers from partner countries who are highly interested in the topic of reducing inequalities and want to exchange their own perspectives on redressing inequality.

All sessions are structured along an expert input and peer exchange elements. While the renowned experts provide policy makers with knowledge on inequalities, the peer learning discussions involve an exchange of ideas and experiences among the policy makers themselves.

The training course is scheduled for 10 weekly sessions, with each session lasting two hours. The training course will be held online via Microsoft Teams and will be hosted by a professional facilitator.

Participants will be selected based on a brief motivation statement of no more than 400 words. To assure the success and the quality of the exchange and discussion in the training course, only 20 participants will be selected.

Participation in the course is free of charge.
