BEST OF 2023

Cinema Cafe

As the site of first dates, children's birthday parties, marriage proposals and even a Halloween-themed wedding, Cinema Cafe venues are more than just movie theaters to its loyal patrons.

The Virginia Beach-based company is a perennial Best Of Winner in a variety of categories including movie theater, family entertainment, date night, and family casual dining—in addition to its wins for individual food and beverage items.

Caitlin Walker, the company's marketing director, said that its continued success in terms of customer satisfaction is the result of consistently fine-tuning its initial concept.

"We were one of the first to bring this unique dinner-and-a-movie concept to the Hampton Roads area," she said. "Outside of the unique concept, it's really about executing it well and that's something we've had 37 years to perfect."

The Cinema Cafe visit is not just about what's on the screen, but the whole experience that includes comfort and cuisine. Before watching their movies in leather recliners, customers select from a menu that runs the gamut from popcorn and candy to pizza and wings to coconut shrimp and street tacos. Of the food offerings, which account for two-thirds of its revenue, Walker said that long-running customer favorites are its hand-breaded chicken tenders, Philly cheesesteaks and pizza made from freshly prepared dough.

The company is owned by founder and CEO John Walker, Richard and Edward Kramer, and Mike Ogden, director of operations. It was originally established in the mid-'80s as part of the Cinema and Drafthouse franchise before becoming a separate entity.

From its flagship theater in Pembroke Meadows in Virginia Beach, it's grown to a stable of six theaters including Kemps River in Virginia Beach, Greenbrier Mall and Edinburg in Chesapeake, and Riverdale in Hampton. In December 2020, amid the COVID pandemic, it opened its Chester location.

With competition from national movie theater chains and a handful of independent movie theaters, Cinema Cafe has worked hard to set itself apart.

"What really drives our customers' loyalty is our dedication to good customer service, providing a fun experience, and keeping our ticket prices affordable. We're still one of the most affordable tickets in town and that's something we've strived for since we started as a sub-run concept," she said, explaining that meant that it showed movies after they left the premiere theaters and before going to video.

When that niche narrowed, the company pivoted into the first-run movie space.

"So now we show only premiere movies, but we still strive to keep those ticket prices affordable and that's a big piece of it," she said.

Taking the dinner-and-a-movie a step further, she said, is another element of the company's success that customers appreciate.

"We try to live up to our tagline of More Than A Movie as much as possible by going above and beyond to make the already unique experience even more special," she said. "A big part of that is doing fun events like the pink carpet premiere weekend we had for 'Barbie.' That was a simple thing that made it fun with a photo opportunity and doing drink specials featured around the movie."

She noted that some premiere events are more elaborate as was for the opening of the final Harry Potter film. For that, the theater pulled out all the stops with a Hogwarts house sorting event, wand crafts and a Quidditch game to make it more of an experience than a traditional theater could offer.

Walker said another big hit with customers is date night events. These are held on weeknights and start with activities and crafts for children and conclude with an ice cream social.

Proceeds from the ice cream social are donated to Variety—The Children's Charity which the movie industry strongly supports.

"The kids get a little gold movie-themed heart and it's just a great way for families to get out and do something a little extra special with us," she said.

Walker added that the company is involved in the community in a variety of ways, especially through its donations of movie passes and popcorn for local charities, fundraising events and student achievement programs.

"That is our favorite way to give back to the communities—outside of employing the 700 people we are fortunate enough to employ—because it wouldn't happen without those people from the community," she said. "It's nice to see how excited people get when they have the opportunity to go out to a movie when they normally wouldn't be able to, just as a special treat."

VIRGINIA BEACH'S BEST WEIGHT LOSS CLINIC

130 business park drive, virginia beach, VA, 23462

757-313-5420

MEET SERIOUSLY HEALTH:

A medical private practice specializing in weight loss and wellness medicine: led by Dr. Jennifer and Patrick Pagador MD and located right in Virginia Beach. They are both board certified and passionate about bariatric and lifestyle medicine. Their team of providers help them run the best weight loss clinic in all of Virginia Beach!

WHY THEY'RE #1:

① PHYSICIAN LED

With many med-spas open, finding board certified weight loss doctors can be challenging. Seriously Health's team is physician led: meaning they monitor for abnormal blood pressures, labs, and obesity-related comorbidities like diabetes, hypertension, hypothyroidism, and even vitamin deficiencies.

② NO STRINGS

Weight loss provider visits are widely available online through apps, but often require strict monthly or even annual subscription costs. Seriously Health's services are paid per visit. Once you've reached your goal weight, discontinuing therapy is pretty straightforward. Not to mention the benefit of actually seeing a provider in person rather than through a webcam.

③ THE BEST PRICE

Getting coverage for the newest breakthrough weight loss drugs can be difficult, frustrating, and extremely expensive- especially when insurance doesn't always cover them. Seriously Health has options to receive medication in-office on the day of your visit, even mailed to your home. No insurance required. Their medications are easily a fraction of the cost of the same medications in regular large chain pharmacies.

Long Jewelers

For 40 years, Long Jewelers has been a top Hampton Roads destination for people shopping for items that they or a loved one may wear for a lifetime.

The business was founded by David Long in 1983 and has two locations in Virginia Beach, one on Shore Drive, the other on Virginia Beach Boulevard, and one on Battlefield Boulevard in Chesapeake.

Jon Walp, general manager of the Boulevard location, said customers keep coming back to the store because of its commitment to customer service and customized work that is done in-house.

He said the business enjoys not just repeat customers but has served generations, noting that he'd recently enjoyed an in-store visit with a family including a grandmother, her daughter, her granddaughter and her great-granddaughter.

Walp, who's been referred to as the Love Doctor, said the business's niche is engagement rings, in addition to diamond jewelry, push presents and anniversary gifts.

"We're so fortunate that we're in the love business. We're blessed to have the opportunity to be with customers at the best times of their lives and get to share in that," he said. "I've been in the business just under 50 years and I enjoy it more now than when I started. That's a testament that we're in a family-friendly consumer-centric business."

In addition to selling signature pieces of jewelry, the shops offer customized designs, repair and appraisals and they also buy gold, diamonds and high-end watches.

"The services we provide are done in-house and everything is warranted and guaranteed. We're trying to bring the very best products that we can at the best prices that we can. Unlike cookie-cutter pieces, everything that we have, for the most part, is hand selected and chosen," he said, noting that he and his colleagues attend independent jewelry conventions across the country to view trends and to connect with long-time partners.

He said that the independent jewelers' industry is made up of successful small family businesses like Long Jewelers, adding that while chain stores owned by corporate conglomerates have the buying power to maintain low price points, they don't offer the customization that a family business can. He said that Long's customers also appreciate that its jewelers have personal relationships with the leaders of well-known brands like Tacori, Martin Flyer, and Fana.

Regarding the bespoke pieces that the jewelers create when customers bring in heirloom pieces for modification and loose stones, Walp said, “That's the greatest thing. It just supports the fact that these things are important to people. They have lasting value, sentimental value and then they can be worn again and again for generations,” he said.

Walp said that Long's has seen its share of stories unfold to happy endings. He shared an anecdote about a repeat customer, a Navy pilot who had bought his wife's engagement ring there. From overseas, he emailed a request for a rush job, asking them to select and ship, to the other side of the country, the perfect necklace for his wife's birthday. Long's accomplished the mission on time.

“It was just a nice request,” he said. “He obviously had a lot of trust in us to spend $5,000 for something while you're on an aircraft carrier in the middle of the ocean.”

He said stories like that underscore the importance of building personal relationships and trust.

“Customer loyalty is simply a matter of trust. Do what you say you'll do. Treat customers with fairness and respect. Don't make promises you can't keep and treat people like you'd like to be treated,” he said. “If you give people value for their money they're going to be loyal.”

Ynot Italian

Whether grabbing a slice for a quick lunch or gathering with family and friends for a traditional Italian meal, Ynot Italian has been a customer favorite since its flagship restaurant opened in the Great Neck area of Virginia Beach in 1993.

Founder and CEO Tony DiSilvestro has since guided its growth to include restaurants in Kempsville and Landstown in Virginia Beach and in Great Bridge and Greenbrier in Chesapeake. There is also a take-out location in the Haygood section of Virginia Beach.

All menus feature Italian dishes including pizza, calzones and stromboli, entrees such as lasagna and create-your-own-pasta, and desserts like tiramisu and gelato.

Throughout the past 30 years, Ynot—which is Tony spelled backward—has accumulated thousands and thousands of votes in Best Of contests. It's won gold in categories including Best Pizza, Best Italian Restaurant, Best Family/Casual Dining, Best Beer/Wine Selection, and Best Desserts.

DiSilvestro attributes that success to staying true to the values that he and his wife, Cyndi, had on the day they opened the first restaurant.

"We stay focused on the customer experience and being consistent every single day. We work very hard on our systems, processes, and procedures. We're experience creators. That's what we try to do. We try and make sure that our customers, no matter what location they're in, get the same experience and the same quality food," he said.

"You have to work at it every day. It's not easy. You have to consistently, constantly be training, training, and training. We invest in our employees; we don't just hire them. So, we really try to create an environment where employees have the opportunity to grow in our brand."

DiSilvestro explained that his focus on customer service was cultivated at an early age. He grew up in a small New Jersey resort town where his parents had summer rental properties for which they had only four months to impress customers so they would come back year after year.

"It was four months of hurry and eight months of worry, so customer service was the top priority from the time I was a little kid," he said. "And I think it really gave me a huge advantage to understand the value of a customer."

DiSilvestro said he thinks customers choose Ynot over national franchises because they feel valued and respected and they know they're getting the best food and service possible. He used an ice cream sundae analogy as a way of explanation.

"Walking in, it's not just vanilla. We're giving them gummy bears, hot fudge, everything. We're making that experience exciting," he said. "We really put a lot of pressure on ourselves to make sure the customer is having that amazing experience. Our servers aren't called servers; they're called experience creators. Because anybody can serve. Not everybody can create an experience."

Regarding community involvement, DiSilvestro said the Ynot brand was founded on the three pillars: family, quality and community. The company's philanthropic endeavors are far-reaching, benefiting education, sports, first responders and the arts.

"Being part of the community has always been a pillar for us from day one. I truly believe that when you have a community that supports you the way that our communities have supported us, you have to give back."

DiSilvestro pointed to the company's support and sponsorship of 18,000 little league baseball players, 22,000 soccer players, and 65 area schools. He also noted that during the pandemic Ynot Italian fed more than 200,000 people, donating food to hospitals and nursing homes and to fire, EMS and police stations.

Its website describes other areas of community involvement including Ynot Wednesdays, a concert series at the Virginia Beach Town Center that benefits the Sandler Center for the Performing Arts Foundation. It also created Ynot Educate, a non-profit that supports area elementary and middle schools.

The company currently employs about 300 people and is actively working its way back to the pre-pandemic number of around 400. DiSilvestro said as the staff is growing, the business is focused on getting back to the basics before moving forward with plans to expand statewide.

"It really comes down to consistency, staying focused, and investing in your employees. Those three things are critically important," he said. "You don't just win Best of the Beach awards and Best Italian Restaurant awards if you're subpar. You have to be hitting on all eight cylinders and you can never drop the ball."
