Privacy Policy

Webb Institute has adopted the following policy with regard to the collection, use and dissemination of personal information that may be requested or required of persons visiting the webb.edu web site.

Personal Data:

Personal information about you is not gathered when you visit the Webb Institute website unless you choose to supply that information to us (for example, by filling out an inquiry or application form).

Disclosure to Third Parties:

Webb Institute will not sell, rent or otherwise share collected information with third parties unless the third party is an institutionally-authorized provider of services to the College. Users of these services are subject to the privacy policies established by the third party provider. Webb Institute reserves the right to disclose this information under special circumstances, such as in connection with judicial proceedings or if, in the sole discretion of the College, disclosure is necessary to protect the interests of Webb Institute.

Other Use of Data:

IT may use your IP address to administer and troubleshoot server problems by identifying internal versus external access to the site (within or outside of the Webb network) as well as to collect aggregate statistics on the most heavily used portions of the website. Individual IP addresses are not disclosed and server logs are maintained on a temporary basis and then expunged.

Security:

The Webb Institute network has security measures in place to protect against any misuse, alteration, or loss of information associated with the College website. However, due to the nature of the Internet, there is no guarantee that any data transmitted can be completely secured. Therefore, any data is submitted at your own risk. Webb will follow best security practices and will make our best effort to maintain the security of information through the use of secure technology, privacy protection controls, and restrictions on employee access.

Links to Other Sites:

The College website contains links to a number of independently run websites both internal and external to the "webb.edu" domain. Webb Institute is not responsible for the privacy practices or content of these sites, and strongly suggests that you refer to their privacy statements, if available.

Contact for Questions or Comments

Please contact webmaster@webb.edu with your queries or comments.