

Community Impact Summary

Creating measurable change in society

FY2021–23

DHEI aspires to be a catalyst for bold action and positive change by advancing health equity as an outcome through community investments, research, and collaborations with leaders across public, private, and social sectors.

DHEI's Theory of Change guides the approach we take to address the root causes of health inequities

Each element of our strategy reinforces the others, creating an integrated approach to advance health equity in local communities and scale innovative health equity solutions nationally

DHEI's three strategic pillars

How the pillars reinforce one another

STRENGTHEN PLACE-BASED CHANGE

DHEI aims to advance place-based change through collaboration with organizations with the deepest understanding of local needs. By bringing stakeholder groups together, we aim to collectively help strengthen local ecosystems.

Place-based proof points are scaled nationally through various channels (e.g., publications, convenings) and create an "idea bank" for leaders to leverage.

DRIVE HEALTH EQUITY INNOVATION

DHEI promotes health equity innovation through social entrepreneurship, knowledge-sharing, and health equity learning opportunities.

Innovation in the form of new tools, analytics, and information is shared with decision-makers to embed health equity within organizations and catalyze impact at the local and national levels.

EQUIP KEY DECISION-MAKERS

Through our work with key decision-makers, DHEI wants to empower leaders to make exponential impact, enact cross-sector change, and increase investments into the health equity ecosystem.

Decision-makers can drive further innovation and can be prepared with tools to activate exponential change in their communities, organizations, offerings, and ecosystems.
